HINDUS REFUSE TO LEAVE VANCOUVER

Give Battle to Canadian Officials and Police

SEVERAL ARE INJURED

Attempt to Board Japanese Steamer is Frustrated by Hundreds of Hindus—Undesirable Citizens to be Deported.

Ottawa, Ontario, July 19.—A report of a battle in Vancouver today between Canadian officials backed by the police and a body of Hindus on the Japanese steamer Komagata Maru was received by government officials tonight.

The steamer arrived three months ago with 350 Hindus, who as British subjects claimed the right to land in Canada.

The Canadian immigration officials refused them admission as undesirable persons. Several times the Hindus attempted to reach shore but were prevented by guards the Canadian government placed on watch.

The courts sustained the position taken by the government and the Japanese captain of the steamer was given until 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon to sail for India with his load of Hindus.

The report, as given out by the immigration department, states that shortly after the captain of the Komagata Maru reported that the passengers prevented him from getting steam up and he had asked for assistance, a hundred and sixty policemen and immigration officials went out to the vessel in a tug but could not gain the deck of the Komagata Maru in the face of stubborn resistance offered by the Hindus on board, who hurled down on the officers coal, iron bars, hatchets and clubs injuring many men and smashing the windows of the tug.

To Make Another Attempt.

Some shots were fired by the Hindus the report states, but the officers, although armed, in their anxiety to avoid bloodshed, did not return the fire and at 3 A. M. realizing the difficulty of reaching the deck of the vessel from the tug, retired, taking with them twenty injured men among whom was the captain of the tug. None of the injuries are likely to prove fatal.

While desirous that no unnecessary violence shall be used the government is determined that the law shall be enforced and with this end in view has authorized the use of the cruiser Rainbow to effect a boarding of the Komagata Maru. If necessary to secure control and maintain it, the Hindus will be handcuffed, a proceeding which in view of their violent actions last night, is considered fully justified. The government has instructed its agents to deport the Hindus on the steamer Empress of Japan next Thursday if it appears that deportation by the Komagata Maru cannot be promptly and effectually accomplished.

It is feared here that lives may be lost before the Hindus are subdued as they have been prisoners on board the vessel for three months and are

MADAME CAILLAUX GOES ON TRIAL THIS MORNING

Charged With Murder of French Journalist

Woman Visited During the Day by Her Husband, Former Premier of France, in Whose Behalf She Shot Editor.

Paris, July 19.—Mme. Caillaux today was placed in the conciergerie, in the lower part of the Pallais de Justice, where she occupies a cell adjoining that one occupied by Marie Antonette. She was transferred from St. Lazare prison where she had been confined since her arrest for killing Gaston Calmette, editor of The Figaro.

The trial of Mme. Caillaux will begin tomorrow. She is maintaining a calm demeanor and today expressed confidence in the outcome of the case. She was visited today by her husband, Jose Caillaux, formerly minister of finance and once premier of France. Because of the high position of those connected with the case the trial is attracting intense interest.

Mme. Caillaux shot Calmette on March 16 in the office of The Figaro. In the indictment full weight is given to the state of mind which Mme. Caillaux was reduced by M. Calmette's campaign against her husband, which is described as "personal and violent." The indicemtne also recites that the crime was committed with premeditation and it is around these questions of premeditation that the court struggle will be fought. Judge Louis Albanel will preside over the trial and Maitre Laborre will act as chief counsel for the defense.

SKULLS AND BONES FOUND AMONG RUINS

Bear Out Story Told by Arkansas Mine Guard.

DEAD BURNED IN CABIN

Pitched Battle Last Friday Between Striking Miners and Guards—Other Mine Property Destroyed Yesterday.

Fort Smith, Ark., July 19.—Charred fragments of the bodies of two men, found in the ruins of a log cabin, and reports of the destruction of the surface workings of another mine owned by the Bache-Denman Coal Company, were today's developments in the conflict between strikers and non-union coal miners and other company employees in the Hartnard valley coal fields.

The discovery of parts of two skulls and human bones, raked from among the embers of the log cabin, explains, it is believed, the failure of J. W. Sylesberry and John Baskin, mine guards, to report after Friday's battle at Prairie Creek, and tends to confirm the statement sworn to by Sam. C. Thomas, a company employee, who declares he witnessed the execution of Sylesberry and Baskin. According to Thomas, he and six other men were taken prisoners after the six-hour battle at Prairie Creek, and escorted to a hut at the head of a gulch on Sugar Loaf mountain. About ten feet from the hut, Thomas declares, a man opened fire with a rifle, killed Sylesberry and Baskin and attempted to kill Thomas, but other members of the party interfered.

Captives Set at Liberty.

The five other captives then were set at liberty, according to Thomas' narrative, and it is alleged the bodies were then placed in the cabin and the torch applied. En route to Huntington, he declared, the party was fired upon, but none wounded.

Conflicting reports last night of the finding of the bodies is explained by the fact that in their first survey of the ns the posse, headed by Paul Little, prosecuting attorney, and Lon Harris, sheriff of Sebastian county, made no discoveries. Later, however, when a more careful examination of the ruins was made, fragments of the bodies were found. The evidence was taken to Greenwood, the county seat, where the grand jury tomorrow will begin an investigation.

To Issue Warrants.

At the request of Mr. Little, warrants were issued tonight for the arrest of a number of men alleged to have taken part in an attack on the Prairie Creek mines, when the tipple and other parts of the plant were dynamited and burned. The warrants charge murder. The mine attacked last night was known as the Dallas mine, several miles from the Prairie Creek. It was not in operation, and was not under guard.

Two arrests were made today on bench warrants issued by Judge Frank A. Youmans, of the United States District Court.

The warrants allege violation of an injunction issued several months ago, restraining members of the United Mine Workers and their sympathizers from interfering with the operation of the mines on an "open shop" basis.

Reports from the several mining settlements tonight indicate that conditions are quiet.

CARMAN FAMILY IS OFF FOR AUTOMOBILE TOUR

Will Not Return Until Time for Trial

After Visiting Several Cities and Resorts, Will Finish Up in Lumberton, Pennsylvania, Where They Own Small Farm.

Freeport, N. Y., July 19.—Mrs. Florence Conklin Carman, under indictment in connection with the killing of Mrs. Louise Bailey, left here today for an auto trip, and is not expected to return until late in the Fall for her trial. Mrs. Carman was accompanied by her husband, Dr. Edwin Carman, in whose office Mrs. Bailey was shot on June 30, and their nine-year-old daughter. Many women of the village called to say good bye to Mrs. Carman.

The Carmans plan to visit several cities and summer resorts before going to Lumberville, Pa., where Dr. Carman owns a small farm.

ADDITIONAL EXPENDITURES.

Senate Adds N. C. Post Office Buildings to Deficiency Bill.

Washington, July 19.—The Senate yesterday incorporated into the general deficiency bill these additional items for public buildings in Southern cities:

Cape Charles, Va., post office site, $3,700.

Clinton, S. C., site and commencement of post office, $5,500.

Manassas, Va., post office site, $3,750.

Mount Airy, N. C., post office site, $5,000.

Mount Olive, N. C., post office site, $2,000.

Woodstock, Va., post office site, $4,250.

CONGRESS STANDS FIRM WITH WILSON

Leaders See Little Hope for Adjournment.

BEFORE EARLY IN FALL

Some Members of Both Branches Have Already Returned to Their Homes in Anticipation of Coming Campaigns.

Library of Congress

Washington, July 19.—Members of Congress who are standing by the administration in its attempt to complete its legislative programme despite the approaching campaign, while admitting they are weary of legislative duties and anxious to get home to their districts, have resigned themselves to the conclusion that there is little hope for adjournment before fall.

Both houses of Congress already are having trouble in rallying a quorum for the transaction of business, but the party whips are keeping constantly at work bringing members who have left town back to Washington and they hope to expedite what business remains as rapidly as possible. Some senators and representatives are permitted to go home from time to time to look after their political fences, but it is the aim of the Democratic leaders to keep a quorum present at all times from now on.

Again this week the chief business of the Senate will be to press the anti-trust bills, with a hope of getting a real start on the general debate on inter-State trade commission bill and to complete the revision of the Clayton bill and the Rayburn securities measure in committees so that they may be submitted to the Senate. The Clayton bill probably will be ready by Tuesday and Senator Newland, chairman of the inter-State commerce committee, hopes to have the securities bill perfected before the end of the week.

Six Weeks' Debate.

At least six weeks of discussion of these trust measures is contemplated in the Senate, although some Republican senators insist that it will be much longer than that before all can be passed.

There still remains the probability that the three bills will be consolidated into one. If that is done the legislative task may not be so prolonged.

One thing that promises to delay the trust programme is the difficulties which have arisen over the nomination of Thomas D. Jones, of Chicago, and Paul M. Warburg, of New York, as members of the Federal Reserve Board. The Senate seems still to be deadlocked over the confirmation of Mr. Jones, administration champions of the Chicago man still holding back a vote in an effort to win over some of their colleagues who oppose his confirmation. The report of the minority of the banking and currency committee who favor his confirmation has not yet been submitted and it may be several days before it is ready, the senators hoping to receive a supplemental statement from Mr. Jones in answer to the unfavorable vote on the Jones nomination is expected until late in the week. Its outcome is doubtful, both sides to the controversy claiming to have a small majority report. At all events no majority.

What may develop with regard to Mr. Warburg's nomination remains in doubt, members of the banking committee having ceased to consider the matter in view of Mr. Warburg's refusal to appear before them.

Another Matter.

President Wilson's desire to have the new Bryan investigating peace treaties ratified before adjournment is another matter that may prolong the session. The treaties, twenty in all, are to be submitted to the Senate within the next few days and the foreign relations committee has been notified that favorable action upon them as soon as possible is hoped for by the President. In view of difficulties encountered recently with regard to treaties, some senators expect that these new treaties will provoke long and spirited debate.

All these things together with uncompleted appropriations legislation serve to convince many members that Congress cannot get away for a long time. One Democratic senator asserted tonight that the session would continue until the next session in December. The Adamson general dam bill, involving the government policy toward the development of water power and the improvement of naigation, is the big pending business in the House this week. An effort will be made tomorrow to secure unanimous consent for passage of a bill to provide for temporary development of oil lands, claims to which are in dispute, particularly in California. The bill would allow the development of the land under agreements to be made by the Secretary of the Interior with the claimants.

The public lands committee before the House meets, will consider and probably endorse an amendment to be framed by Secretary of the Navy Daniels, designed to protect any rights the navy may have in oil lands withdrawn from entry and designated as naval oil reserves.

Dam Bill Up Tuesday.

The dam bill will come up Tuesday. It would authorize Federal permits for construction of dams and locks for developments of hydraulic power for service to the communities along navigable streams, the permits to run for fifty years. The advocates of the bill lay especial stress on the argument that it will prove a great factor in developing streams that are now too shallow for navigation purposes. There has been opposition on the

PRESIDENT RECOVERED FROM INDIGESTION

Will Resume His Round of Work This Morning—Sees Business Men.

Washington, July 19. — President Wilson had completely recovered today from his recent attack of indigestion. He planned to resume his usual round of work tomorrow and to see several business men, including S. R. Bertron, a New York banker, to discuss business conditions and anti-trust legislation.

Expecting a definite outcome of the fight on the nomination of Thomas D. Jones as a member of the Federal Reserve Board this week, Mr. Wilson is preparing to take up the case of Paul Warburg, in an effort to get the Senate to confirm the nomination. He has been assured that if a compromise can be had on the question of the appearance of Mr. Warburg before the committee, favorable action in the Senate will follow.

Mr. Wilson also plans this week to take a hand in trying to straighten out the tangled situation in the Senate over the anti-trust bills.

Inter-State One-Step
Contest at Lumina starts tonight.—Advertisement.

SIR EDWARD CARSON HOLDS ARMED ULSTERITES IN CHECK, BUT FIGHT OVER HOME RULE IS STILL FEARED

1-Sir EDWARD CARSON CALLING ULSTERITES to ARMS—2-TYPE of ULSTER UNIONIST VOLUNTEER—PHOTOS © 1914 BY AMERICAN PRESS ASSOCIATION

Belfast, Ireland, July 19.—But a spark is needed to set Ireland ablaze over home rule. Ulster is a volcano which has not yet burst forth. It may remain this way or may gradually die out, or it may cause an eruption which will spread all over the north of Ireland. Sir Edward Carson succeeded in holding his volunteers in check over the Battle of the Boyne day, July 12, and the parade of the Orangemen passed off without serious trouble. It is admitted, however, that the Ulster question has reached a "crisis" again.

FOUR MEN ARRESTED FOR SHOOTING POLICE

Result of Tragedy at Charlotte Early Saturday

Fearing Mob Violence, Sheriff Takes Them to Greensboro and Places Them in Jail There for Safe Keeping—Jail Birds.

Charlotte, N. C., July 19.—Four white men, Jim Knotts, Jesse Helms, alias Jess Harlis, Will Stamey and Hiram Sykes, have been arrested here for assault from ambush and desperately wounding assistant chief of police Neill Elliott and patrol driver A. B. Moore.

Fearing the outbreak of mob spirit, over the shooting the sheriff carried the prisoners to Greensboro to be held for trial.

Stamey was paroled from the Federal penitentiary at Atlanta recently, and Knotts has served sentence on the county roads. According to the police, three of the men have confessed to doing the shooting early Saturday morning. The police, shot through the lungs, are expected to recover.

BRITISH KING TO CALL CONFERENCE

In Last Attempt to Settle Irish Problem

ANNOUNCEMENT TODAY

Primier Asquith Expects to Make Announcement When Bill To Amend Home Rule Bill Comes Up for Third Reading

London, July 19.—The King has called a conference of party leaders to seek a solution of the Irish problem. This is the announcement Premier Asquith is expected to make today when the bill amending the home rule bill comes up again in the House The prime minister's speech, indicating how the government purposes dealing with the Lord's amendments to the amending bill is awaited with deepest anxiety, and it is probable the House will immediately adjourn debate on the amending bill indefinitely to allow negotations of a settlement to proceed outside of Parliament.

Premier Asquith has been with the King at Portsmouth through the weekend and the King's anxiety to get the difficulty settled, resulted in the reported determination to call a conference.

The King will receive the delegates, but will not himself preside over the conference.

Depend on Lloyd George

The ministers are placing great reliance on the persuasive powers of Chancellor Lloyd George, who has been shunted temporarily from the financial duties to assist the prime minister in solving the Irish difficulty. Chancellor George's business is to smooth the path between Nationalists and Liberals.

It is understood the government is willing to go a considerable way in meeting the Carsonite demands, but is hampered by the unyielding attitude of the Nationalists.

The chancellor of the exchequer has conferred several times with John Redmond, the Nationalist leader, in an endeavor to find points of common agreement. Mr. Redmond has called a conference of his party Monday, to hear a report from Joseph Devlin, member of parliament from Belfast, who has returned from a mission in the north of Ireland. This confer-

STILL ANOTHER CASE OF PLAGUE AT NEW ORLEANS

One Discovered Yesterday Makes Total of Seven.

Both Saturday's and Sunday's Cases Found In The Original Focus According to Health Officers Announcement

New Orleans, July 19.—Health officers today announced that another case of bubonic plague had been discovered here, the victim being Pholememe Glapoine, a negro girl. Investigation showed she had been employed by a waste paper concern, whose plant is within what is termed the original focus of the disease.

The girl was removed to the isolation hospital where her condition was pronounced serious.

The case today is the seventh officially reported.

ISLAND REPUBLICS MUST SETTLE DOWN AT ONCE

Uncle Sam Will Stand for No Foolishness From Little Brothers

Washington, July 19.—Three hundred American marines, the vanguard of the expedition ordered to warn the Dominican and Haitien republics they must quiet down, on pain of intervention by the United States arrived at Guantanamo Cuba today on board the passport Hancock from Vera Cruz. They will be sent to reinforce the crews of the four American men of war stationed about the island.

The Hancock is under orders to proceed to Philadelphia to take 400 marines from there to Guantamo. Plans are being considered for dispatching additional vessels to the scene.

No dispatches were received at the department today concerning the situation on the island.

SOLDIERS PREVENT DEATH OF NEGRO AT HANDS OF MOB

Black Brute Said to Have Criminally Assaulted Young Woman

Greensburg, Pa., July 19—While 200 armed and excited men surrounded the jail at Harrison City, near here, late today, threatening Arthur Alston, 19, a negro, the State constabulary took the prisoner away and brought him to the county jail here.

Alston is the alleged assailant of Pauline Trochance, 18. When news of the negroes capture spread an angry mob gathered. The troopers arrived as the mob moved on the jail.

ZAPATA MAY RUIN PLANS FOR PEACE

Bandit Has Large Force Near Mexican Capital.

REBELS RUSHED SOUTH

Carranza Rushes Soldiers Toward Mexico City To Aid in Keeping Order—Vera Cruz Railway To Be Repaired

Washington, July 19.—While government officials here feel the Mexican problem is shaping itself for solution apprehension is manifest over the possible operations of the Zapatista forces. Dispatches from Mexico City and Vera Cruz declaring Zapata's followers were dangerously near the capital are confirmed by State Department advices. Emissaries from General Carranza are in communication with Zapata and it is hoped through these parleys to bring the military operations of the revolution under one head.

Constitutionalist forces are being hurried southward to help maintain order at the capital The American government's efforts are directed toward influencing a quick settlement between Carranza and Carbajal that a stable government may be set up without loss of time.

The Constitutionalist agency here has delivered to the South American mediators a note rejecting the invitation for Carranza and Huerta representatives to meet in peace conferences. It was written by Carranza before Huerta resigned but delivery was delayed.

Railway To Be Repaired

Mexico City, July 19.—Direct railroad communication will be reestablished between Mexico City and Vera Cruz probably by Tuesday. President Carbajal today informed the British minister he had issued orders for the closing of the gap.

A trip of investigation through the district surrounding Mexico City today disclosed the fact that recent reports of the activity of Zapata adherents were exaggerated. The Federals still hold Contreras, Tulyahualco and Xochimilco. Zapata bands in small numbers are commiting depredations but there has been no concentrated attack on any place. It is considered impossible for the Zapata forces to advance beyond their present position. There are sufficient Federal troops here to repulse Zapata and his men should they attempt to advance.

The usual Sunday calm prevailed here today, a bull fight being the main attraction.

Joined by Friends.

Puerto Mexico, Mexico, July 19.—Former President Huerta and his party here were joined today by several military men and politicians who arrived from the capitol on regular and special trains. Among those who came in today were a few congressmen.

According to the latest reports, ex-President Huerta and his party expect to leave here Tuesday. Generals Huerta and Blanquet, accompanied by three or four aides, will sail on the German cruiser Dresden. The others will go on the steamer Mexico, of the Mexican Navigation Company, which is said to have been chartered for this purpose.

The refusal of President Carbajal to allow Huerta use of the gunboats Bristow and Zaragosa has provoked much comment here. The Zaragosa put to sea today. The only order the commander received was to go to Havana. It was reported the vessel intended to pick up at that port some prominent Constitutionalist and bring him to Mexico City to enter into personal negotiations with Carbajal.

The United States cruiser Des Moines, which has been lying off the harbor, followed the Zaragosa.

General Huerta spent the day in his car. He was much less cheerful than at any time since leaving the capital and those about him treated him with the greatest consideration. Most of the women and men of the party left the railway cars for luncheon.

Huerta Wants a Ship.

Vera Cruz, July 19.—The agent at this port for the Mexican Navigation Company, which operates a line of coasting steamers, received orders from Mexico City today to despatch a steamer into Puerto Mexico to transport ex-President Huerta and members of his party to Jamaica.

Mexican Governor Killed.

On Board U. S. S. California, La Paz, June 18, via Wireless to San Diego, July 19.—Word has reached the American fleet that General Meyer, Federal governor of Guadalajar, has been assasinated. He had shown a friendly spirit towrads the Federals and afforded them much aid.

Rosirio Taken by Rebels.

On Board U. S. California, La Paz, July 18, via Wireless to San Diego, Cal., July 19.—Eight hundred Constitutionalists were landed last night at Rosirio, Lower California. The Carranzista governor of Lower California demanded the surrender of the city, and upon being refused began a spirited attack at 8 o'clock this morning. The fighting lasted six hours. The city was in a state of panic during the engagement, there being much fighting from house tops. The Federal forces finally retreated. The total list of killed are not known.

Many foreign refugees went aboard American ships during the conflict.

Do Not Recognize Revolt.

Vera Cruz, Mexico, July 19.—Lieut. Col. Izunca, commanding the Federal forces at the gap in the railway, announced today that a proclamation had been issued at Mexico iCty granting all prisoners belonging to the so-called revolutionary forces permission to pass through the Federal lines. The INDEPENDENT LEAGUE GAMES ON SATURDAY.

Stags and Immanuel Teams Winners in Two Splendid Exhibitions.

The teams composing the Independent League of the city had two fine exhibitions of the National spot Saturday afternoon. The Tigers won from Wrightsboro by a score of 16 to 6 and in the second game the Immanuels had a walkover from the Stags, the former winning by a score of 11 to 1. The features of the first game were the poor team work of Wrightsboro and the hitting and running of the Tigers. Smith for the Tigers pitched a steady and consistent game, only four hits being registered against his delivery.

In the second game Mathis for the Immanuels pitched his usual steady game, allowing only seven well scattered hits. He would have won a shut out game had it not been for an error. In addition to his superb pitching Mathis secured four hits and made a home run. Four quick double plays were pulled off by the Immanuels. Besides giving Mathis almost errorless support they drove Borneman to cover and Corbett was treated little better.

The standing of the clubs is now as follows:

Club	W.	L.	Pct.
Tigers	2	0	1,000
Stags	1	1	.500
Immanuels	1	1	.500
Wrightsboro	0	2	.000

Next Saturda ythe first game will be between the Stags and the Tigers and the second will be between the Immanuels and the Wrightsboro team The first game will be called at 3 P. M. and the second at 5 P. M. No charge for admission will be made.

It has been arranged to have the winning team in the Independent League play a series with the winning team of the City League to decide the championship of the city. These games will be played at Sunset Park.

SURPRISE AT SEABRIGHT.

Seabright, N. J., July 19.—It required five sets for R. Norris Williams, as challenger, to beat T. R. Pell today in the final of the test tournament for the Davis cup team. The score was 6-4, 4-6, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3.

The first sets were fought as a duel from the base line. At long range playing Pell surprised the spectators by outplaying Williams and when Williams realized he was two sets down he deserted the base line for the net.

ONLY ONE CHANGE IN SOUTHERN ASSOCIATION.

Chattanooga Advances From Fourth to Second Place.

Atlanta, Ga., July 19.—The week just closed saw few changes in position among the clubs of the Southern Association. Chattanooga had the best record and advanced from fourth to second place, changing positions with Birmingham. The others held the positions they had the previous week. In the first division Mobile continued to lead and Atlanta was in third place.

No changes occurred in the second divisions. New Orleans remained in fifth place with Nashville, Memphis and Montgomery continuing in the order named. Outside of Chattanooga none of the teams in first or second division showed decided superiority or inferiority to its opponents.

Two tie games were played. Memphis and Mobile struggled for fourteen innings Wednesday with the score 5 to 5 when the game was called on account of darkness. The other draw contests also was played Wednesday, a game between Nashville and Montgomery being stopped by rain at the end of the sixth with the count two and two.

BOSTON MEN WON SWIMMING HONORS.

New York, July 19.—Three Boston men today won special silver trophies offered by the New York Tribune for the amateur marathon swimming race from the lower end of Manhattan to Sandy Hook, an estimated distance of twenty-two miles.

The race was won by George R. Meahan, of Boston, amateur three-mile champion of New England, who made the journey in seven hours, 18 minutes. Officials declared this time a record. Samuel Richards and Walter Dunn finished second and third, their respective times being 8:19 and 8:19:20.

Thirty men started but only four finished. Fred H. James, of New York, a fifty-year-old veteran, was picked out of the water within 1,000 yards of the goal. He had been in the water for seven hours and twenty minutes and was ahead of all the other contestants except Meahan, the winner.

JIMMY AUSTIN

Red McGhee says:

It don't seem right somehow to rave, in this land of the free an' brave, about a titled gent. But Jims' ain't bad, so can your frowns. He's Sunday Boss o' Rickey's Browns. (He'd own the team n Lent). On Sundays Rickey hikes away to hear some ol' church organ play an' Jimmy takes the reins. An' Jimmy ain't no slouch, at that. He's got what Frenchmen call ee-clat—it's what we call just brains.

..He's one peach on that Brownie tree that ain't got any LLD. to tack behind his name. His letters run B A S E, then B A L L. Jim, y'see, was brought up in the game. But don't slip Jim the tough guy check—there's no sandpaper 'round his neck. He's clean, Jim is, an' square. He'll fight when someone drops the hat, an' what he thinks he tells you flat an' puts it to you fair.

At third his game is full o' snap. He keeps the ginger box on tap until the last man's down. His pep supply that never ends has made the scrappy Jimmy friends in every Ban league town. At bat he swings from either side an' pounds ol' Reach's finest hide at fair-to-middlin' pace. If Sunday happened every day ol' Jim could keep the Browns away above that cellar place.

SITUATION IN MAJOR LEAGUES IS EASIER

Tenseness of a Week Ago is Practically All Gone.

LOOKS LIKE REPEATER

If New York Nationals and Philadelphia Americans Are To Be Kept Out of World's Series Others Must Pick Up

New York, July 19.—The beginning of the week finds the situation in the big league baseball races less tense and with fewer notable changes than seemed the case a week ago. If New York in the National and Philadelphia in the American league are not to repeat their pennant winning performances, the other clubs will have to show more consistent winning power than displayed in the last seven days.

In the American, the Athletics gained a full game on Detroit, leaving the Tigers three and a half games behind the leaders. Washington dropped back to a point five games removed from the front and Boston is five and a half games from the top, half a game worse off than last Sunday. It remained however for Chicago to do the worst. The White Sox won only two of seven games and are more than six games behind the pace makers. St. Louis fell off slightly, the club's standing now being just a trifle over the 500 mark.

The Athletics at last seem to be playing their old steady smashing game. Forced into idleness the greater part of the week because of wet weather, they later took all three games played with the White Sox and closed their week's work with a record of 3 games won and none lost. The drop of the White Sox came with the greater shock to their supporters.

Accident has hit Washington hard, although it appears Milan's disablement will not be for so long a period as was feared. Then, too, the Senators are no longer able to count a game virtually won the moment Walter Johnson steps into the box.

Boston showed consistent work and passed both Chicago and St. Louis, moving up to fourth place. St. Louis, like Chicago, found the going hard in New York, where the Chance men have taken a big brace.

The Cleveland's took two out of three from Washington. The Yankees strengthened by the addition of outfielder Cree and first baseman Mullen have won eight of their last eleven games.

The National League feature was the twenty-one inning game between New York and Pittsburg, which will be handed down as one of the historic contests of the game.

The Cubs fared slightly better than the Giant's on the week's work, losing one game less. By beating the Brooklyn today they gained a few percentage points and moved that much nearer the Giants.

Going down the National line, little has happened to cause comment. St Louis kept pace with New York in games won and lost but is not close enough to threaten. The Cincinnatti's, crippled by desetions, are having a struggle to keep within hailing distance of the 500 point and find the Philadelphias now challenging them for a first division place. Brooklyn, Pittsburg and Boston are fairly close together with Boston doing the best work of any of the trio.

Brooklyn's spurt and its resultant advance to the first division were features of the race in the Federal League.

The contests of Saturday left Brooklyn leading the second section in the Federal race; but beginning with a 1 to 0 victory in a duel between Finneran, of Brooklyn, and Dickson of Pittsburg, Monday Manager Bradley's men won four straight and Thursday reached third place. Pittsburg was the Brooklyn stepping stone. The Pittsburgers partly redeemed themselves by winning Friday through Camnitz's good pitching. Buffalo lost ground and Baltimore gained slightly.

The record in the American and National Leagues of games played, won and lost, with runs, hits errors and men left on bases:

WHY SMITH WAS RULED OUT OF PRIZE FIGHT.

London, July 19.—Sporting life today publishes a "considered view" of disputed points in the Smith-Carpentier fight. It says regarding the disqualification of Smith:

"Referee Correy hesitated to disqualify Smith because he believed the foul to be neither intentional or dangerous and was prepared to order the fight to continue if the Frenchman had arisen none the worse, but seeing that he remained down in apparent distress, Correy disqualified Smith."

TENNIS PLAYERS RESTED.

Chicago, July 19.—Members of the Austrian and Canadian tennis teams here to play their Davis cup preliminary at Lake Forest Thursday, Friday and Saturday rested today.

The four members of the Australian team arrived Saturday from Wimbledon, where they played in the all-England tournament. They are Norman E. Brookes, Anthony Wilding.

BALLOON TOTO CRASHES INTO TREES—PANIC.

Paris, July 19.—he balloon Toto, a contestant in the Grand Prix race, crashed into the trees of the Tuileries Garden today, injuring the pilot, Georges Blanchet, and his aide, Duval, and causing a panic among thousands of spectators. Several were slightly injured in the rush; many women fainted and others were overcome by escaping gas.

The cordage surrounding the envelope began to give way when the Toto had ascended 150 feet. Blanchet and his aide were bowing their adieus and paid no attention to warnings shouted by spectators.

The basket, with the two men clingin gto it, dropped into a cluster of trees and struck an iron picket fence. Blanchet's injuries were minor but Duval was injured internally. Blanchet was the winner of the Grand Prix on three previous occasions.

RACES BEGIN TODAY.

Cleveland, July 19.—Many prominent trotters and pacers are here for the opening of the 1914 grand circuit session at North Randall tomorrow. The races will continue through Friday. Thirty thousand dollars will be distributed in prizes in twenty events.

TWENTY-TWO INNING GAME.

Sioux City, Iowa, July 19.—Wichita today won a 22-inning ball game three to two. The contest lasted four hours and 48 minutes.

One reason given for a report that Mr. Bryan will live in North Carolina after he leaves the State Department is that "North Carolina has always voted strongly for him." But not as strongly as Texas, where Mr. Bryan has already driven a stake down, says the New York Sun. "He is a rancher in the Lone Star State. Why not go where the votes fall thickest and he can take the stump in 224 counties?" Texas is all right, we suppose, as a place in which to own an onion ranch, or even to "take the stump in 224 counties," but the suggestion of the Sun is an affront to the intelligence of the Commoner, or an exposure of the ignorance of the New York provincial luminary.—Exchange.

SHAMROCK IV WILL START ON TRIP ACROSS ATLANTIC TODAY AND WILL TAKE FOUR WEEKS

SHAMROCK IV ON FINAL TRIAL TEST

The Shamrock IV has been dismantled and is ready for its trip across the Atlantic. She will sail this evening. It is estimated that it will take four weeks to cross. She will be sailed over with a small mast and sails specially prepared for the trip. The final tests of the new cup challenger show that she is the most dangerous yacht that has ever been entered as a challenger in the races for the America's cup.

FIRST REGIMENT OFF FOR ITS ENCAMPMENT

National Guard Companies at Camp Glenn Today

Rapid Progress on Federal Building Repairs at Raleigh—Toll Roads in the State—Inorease Interest in Poultry.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., July 19.—The movement of the companies of the First regiment, North Carolina National Guard, for the annual regimental encampment at Camp Glenn, Morehead, began this morning and by Monday forenoon the troops will be all settled in camp for ten days of camp life that will include special drills, training in camp life and general maneuvers in addition to practice on the fine government rifle range and a round of surf bathing and other pleasures that make these encampment occasions that are most pleasantly anticipated by the officers and the men.

Col. J. T. Gardner will be in command of the regiment. The regiment is made up of companies from Hickory, Gastonia, Winston-Salem, Charlotte, Statesville, Asheville, Shelby, Waynesville, Mount Airy, Concord and High Point.

This is the last military gathering for Camp Glenn this season as the Second regiment goes to Augusta, Ga., for an encampment with United States regulars August 4 instead of camping in this State as the other two regiments are doing.

Rapid progress is being made on the remodelled and enlarged government building here and the Federal officeholders who are to within a few months move back into much handsomer and more commodious quarters are casting about for the formulation of plans for some appropriate ceremonies in honor of the re-opening of the building. The special ceremonies will doubtless be in connection with the convening of court by Judge H. G. Connor in the new court room, which is a decided improvement over the old court room. Besides being larger and much better designed and equipped it is on the second instead of the third floor. Plans are on foot to have some special speaker of National reputation here for the occasion. The remodelled building is to be ready some time in the fall.

J. T. Bland, of Raleigh, secretary-treasurer of the newly-organized North Carolina Poultry Association, is getting the movement well in hand for bringing about greater co-operation among the county and local poultry associations and ultimately to increase poultry raising among town and country folks and advance the interests of the poultry business. Co-operation among the local associations is the prime object.

Quite an interesting statistical report on highway work in North Carolina has just come from the presses of the State printers, the report being the work of State Geologist Joseph Hyde Pratt. There is a section devoted to toll roads in the State which shows that there are seven principal toll roads in the State—the Jefferson turnpike, extending 40 mil es from North Wilkesboro to Jefferson; the Lenoir-Blowing Rock turnpike, from Lenoir to Blowing Rock, a distance of 43 miles; the Blowing Rock-Boone turnpike, Blowing Rock to Boone, a distance of 10 miles; the Yonahlossee road, Blowing Rock to Linville, a distance of 22 miles; the Kanuga turnpike, from Hendersonville to Kanauga Lake, a distance of four miles; the Junaluska turnpike from Waynesville to Eagle's Nest at the top of Junaluska Mountain, a distance of nearly four miles, and the Crest of the Blue Ridge highway—partly toll—and in course of construction from Alta Pass, Mitchell county, toward Linville, Avery county.

It is a notable fact that the council of State has just been advised that the Jefferson turnpike, which is a largely tate-owned road, having been built by State convicts for stock in the road, is rapidly being washed away with practically no care being taken of it in the way of repairs and that it will very soon completely disintegrate if something is not done. The State authorities are being urged to turn over the State's holdings in stock to private interests that obligate to properly maintain the road as a full-fledged toll road. State officers, however, express themselves as very much opposed to doing this as the State has been pledged a permanent asset in the stock when inducements were held out for the State to provide the convicts for the construction of the road.

NEW GINNERY AT BURGAW.

Larger and Modern Plant Being Installed by Mr. Croom.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Burgaw, N. C., July 18.—Burgaw will be a first-class cotton market this fall, Mr. W. D. Croom is installing an entire new outfit, consisting of a larger boiler and engine and three new gins, which will have a capacity of 45 bales per day.

Cotton growing is on the increase in this section, as the quantity ginned here each season indicates, and thhis season will be no exception, notwithstanding the unfavorable conditions early in the year. Cotton has withstood the drought remarkably well and is looking very fine. With the new and modern ginning outfit, the Burgaw Gin Company will be in better position than ever before to handle the crop.

NEGRO KILLED AT PINETOPS.

Wanted in Nash County for Criminal Assault—Self-Defense.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Tarboro, N. C., July 18.—Word was received here yesterday from Pinetops, in this county, that a policeman at that place shot and killed a negro who was wanted in Nash county on a charge of rape. It appears that the man drew a pistol when the officer attempted to arrest him, but the policeman was quicker on the draw and shot first, killing the man instantly. The shooting aroused some little excitement at first, but the officer appeared to be entirely in his rights, and acting in self-defense, when he killed the man, it soon blew over.

RARE TRIBUTE TO MARINER

Town of Atlantic Draped in Mourning for Capt. Jas. D. Smith —Lads Released

(Special Star Correspondence)

Kinston, N. C., July 19.—Although he was little known away from the sounds country where he spent the greater portion of his life, the little banks town of Atlantic thought enough of Capt. Joseph W. Smith to drape its houses in mourning for him. Captain Smith is dead after a long and adventurous life. "Soldier, mariner and patriot" is the way he was eulogized along Core Sound.

He was one of those farthest to the front at Gettysburg, and participated in 16 other battles of the war between the states. Then when the war was over, Captain Smith, yet a mere lad, looked to the sea which beat up on Core banks just a mile over the sound from his home for his profession. He was one of the race now almost extinct, the sailormen who crossed the main in the old sail fleet. For 25 years he went before the mast and as master, and graced the quarter-deck and forecastle alike as a Christian seaman and skipper. He was capable and careful, but twice experienced narrowing misfortunes. Once he was shipwrecked he lost his cargo, a part of his crew, and suffered a broken leg and other injury; again when he lost a ship and her burden, Smith was dashed up on the strand, helpless and broken, and his life was despaired of. He had a horror for the cape at Hatteras. Captain Smith reared a large family of children, and in his declining years was surrounded by a flock of grandchildren which were his delight. Not the storm and strife but the set of his soul decided the goal for the aged mariner, and his passing out was without dread by him. He had been confined to his bed for five weeks before he died, and was a victim of cancer.

Joseph Dixon, 17, and Henry Smith, 15, boys of Chocowinity, a junction station on the Norfolk Southern, have been released on a manslaughter charge by a Beaufort county recorder. They were accused of connection with the drowing of 14-year-old Elizah Elks. Elks was in Bear Creek when the other two came on the scene. He was a poor swimmer, and sat on the sternsheets of a boat. One of the others stepped into the small craft and swamped it. The Elks boy went to the bottom and did not come up again. Young Dixon made strenuous efforts to save him. The body was found an hour later. Isiah Elks, a brother of the drowned lad, had the others indicted, but the evidence plainly showed that the defendants were guilty of no criminal intent.

KINSTON'S 'JIM CROW' FOUNTAIN

Tried Out Last Week—Mrs. Green to Go to Washington

(Special Star Correspondence)

Kinston, N. C., July 19.—Kinston's experimental "Jim Crow" drinking fountain—the first in the country—is and isn't a success. The fountain, modeled in accordance with an order by the mayor upon the idea of water and light Commissioner R. R. Rouse, gaudily painted in green and silver and red, is an ornament to the busiest spot of the city, corner of Queen and Gordon streets. But when it was installed and the water turned on yesterday, it was discovered that the water all flowed into the silver-colored basin, "for whites only". Negroes flocked about the fountain as thick as flies, but for them the water failed to come. It is a good thing for the politicians in power that the constitutional amendment is already in force. The trouble, it developed, was that the flow was not large enough to supply both spouts, and "Dynamite" Wilkins, an explosive expert, has been commissioned to redrill it. The pressure today is insufficient to force the water through sanitary bulbs, and the Jim Crow fountain is not yet really sanitary as it was intended. There will be no more danger of contagion from public drinking places in Kinston, for if the present experiment after it has a chance proves up to expectations, every fountain in the city will be remodeled along the same line, with silvered bulbs for whites and red for blacks. "The blacks fail to realize the importance of sanitary methods" is the reason for the administration's action, and the city is resolved that in future blacks shall not be responsible for ill-health derived by whites from drinking after blacks. The police have been ordered to enforce separation. A local negro newspaper has criticised the mayor for the innovation, and health authorities all over the country have taken notice of the Jim Crow fountain.

The local W. C. T. U., the largest union in the State, will send Mrs. Geo. Green, who organized it, to Washington to help defend the Hobson bill for national constitutional prohibition. The union elected Mrs. Green to represent it after the national organization had issued a call for as many of the members as possible to be in the national capital for the hearing on the bill.

JUDGE CLARK'S ADDRESS.

Speaks to Equal Suffrage League at Chapel Hill.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Chapel Hill, July 18.—Hon. Walter Clark, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina, addressed 200 people on the question of woman suffrage here Friday afternoon. The meeting, which was held on the lawn of Mrs. Daniels, was under the auspices of the Equal Suffrage League of North Carolina. Mrs. Archibald Henderson, wife of Dr. Archibald Henderson, is president of the league.

Judge Clark's speech was in the form of an answer to the stock arguments used by the enemies of the movement. The male part of the audience, some hundred in number, received the speech with indifferent enthusiasm. They were largely students from the Summer School and attended more out of idle curiosity than anything else.

Judge Clark's belief is that the best way to secure votes for women is through education. He stated that over half of the votes cast are voted by men under 30, so it is only a matter of ten years or so to educate a majority of the voters. A study of the history of the movement in the United States shows that it has taken almost exactly ten years to win the fight in each State. Another significant testimony of the success of woman in politics is that so many of the Western States have adopted woman suffrage, after observing their neighbors use it for some time.

NEWBERN CITIZENS CAREFUL

Police on Look Out for Swindlers—Near-Strike in Machine Shops—"Nature Fake" Stories.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Newbern, N. C., July 19.—Newbern citizens have in the past been swindled so many times by slick bunco artists that the police have of late been keeping their weather eye peeled for these parasites and in consequence it is seldom that one of this variety plies his trade here. Yesterday morning an elderly woman of very genteel appearance arrived and went the rounds soliciting contributions for some orphan asylum. The woman put up a very pathetic appeal, saying that the money would be used in defraying the expenses of taking care of little tots who had been left alone in the world and it is said that she collected quite a neat sum before her operations were put to an abrupt stop by an order from Mayor Pro Tem. William Ellis who ordered her to cease soliciting until she could prove beyond a doubt that her mission here was bona fide. The woman claimed that she was from Rocky Mount, N. C., and was well known there. Mr. Ellis then suggested that she get in communication with the mayor of that town and have him verify her assertions so that there could be no doubt as to the truth of her statements. However, this did not appeal to the woman and she declared that rather than go to any such trouble that she would desist from her soliciting and would get out of the city and this she did, leaving yesterday afternoon. A few weeks ago two foreigners who claimed to be soliciting funds for a church in Turkey came to Newbern to "work" the citizens. They were found to be imposters and were forced to make a speedy get away.

What came near resulting in a strike of the men employed in the machine shops, the boiler makers and some of the men on the yards of the Norfolk Southern Railway Company, occurred here yesterday morning when three men who are employed in the shops refused to join the union in which the other men are affiliated. The union here is very strong, practicall yall of the men in the shops being members, and they refused to work with "scabs." The men went to work at 7 o'clock and at that time informed the three men who were not members, that they had an opportunity of becoming affiliated with the union but they for some reason declined to accept the invitation. The situation was thoroughly explained to them and they were told that unless they became members that the other men would not work with them. Still they were obdurate and when this fact became known the other men laid down their tools and walked out of the shops. The situation for a while had a most serious aspect. Five minutes passed by and during this time one of the bosses was engaged in explaining the situation to the three non-union men. For twenty minutes they held out in their determination to stay out of the union but finally they were convinced of the error of their decision and gladly decided to join. The men were out for about twenty minutes and at the end of this time, after the cause of the trouble had been remedied, they returned to their tasks. This is the first time that any such incident has occurred in the local shops of the Norfolk Southern for considerable time.

A number of stories which might be classed as "nature fakes" have recently been heard in Newbern but in each case the narrator was a person of repute and whose word is known to be good. First there was little Johnnie Hansen, of Bridgeton, who watched the sun's rays hatch a chicken. Then came R. L. Stallings, of Bridgeton, with an account of an eight months' old calf which was giving milk. Next in order Mr. Wadsley, of the Bradham Broad street drug store, finds a perfectly formed egg inside of a hen's egg but it remained for an old sea captain, Frank Sloan, of Goose Creek Island, away down on the nethermost end of the North Carolina coast, to cap the climax with a fish story that is "some" yarn. The captain was in Newbern yesterday and while here the conversation drifted around to curiosities. One man told about the chicken, another about the calf, etc., and finally the visitor stated that he knew of a case which had the others left in the shade. According to the captain's yarn he several months ago succeeded in catching a small shark. The fish was not of the man-eating variety and the captain decided to make an attempt to keep him alive. He finally succeeded in getting it into an inclosure which he had built in the water and at once devised a plan to make the fish, which at present is about five feet in length, serve as a motor for a small boat by placing it in a wire cage beneath the craft. The old mariner has not yet succeeded in accomplishing this object but holds out hope of doing so and, in fact, says that the fish, he believes, understands his motives and is aiding him as much as possible. The captain is known to be a truthful man and his account of this strange incident is given credence.

STOCK MARKET COULD NOT RESIST HEAVY INFLUENCES.

Weak Industrial Stocks Affected the Entire Market During Week.

New York, July 19.—The stock market could not resist wholly the influence of weakness in industrial stocks last week. The esverity of the commerce commission's arraignment of New Haven apparently gave credence to rumors of an unfriendly attitude to the railroad's claims for freight increases.

There were rumors, also of intended congressional investigations of other railroads. The adjudged right of Union Pacific to distribute its extra dividend was favorable, but even that carried weakness to Baltimore and Ohio, owing to threatened increase of market offerings.

Huerta's abdication proved a small factor.

Steel trade authorities depreciated excess of enthusiasm over "mild improvement." Black rust damage figured in wheat. The feature there, however, was the deluge of new wheat moved. Resources thus acquired insured financial and business quickening. Leaders' views of interest rates were affected moderately by this, but rates were not materially altered. Caution was minfest in foreign markets from political causes. The wage dispute on western railroads aroused slight misgivings.

YOU WILL COME AGAIN?

By Ella A. Clark.

Martha Hendricks stood dejectedly on the street corner. Dusk had suddenly fallen on the city and now through the shadows there were greaming myriads of electric lights. As she poised upon the curve one by one four shining letters sprang upon a building opposite, held their light an instant, then were gone. They flashed back at her in a moment once more, held their light an instasnt, then were gone—four glittering letters, high over the heads of the passers-by. Martha, fascinated by the precision of their appearance, failed for a moment to realize what four they were. Nightly they beckoned to thousands of girls who, knowing their significance, welcomed their rhythmic flashes. Tonight they seemed to summon her with positive insistence. Awoman, stopping to wait the passing of a truck, glanced at Martha, turned her troubled eyes upon her, then smiled understandingly "It's fascinating to watch them Is'nt it?" She said, Martha turned her troubles eyes upon her. "What do they mean" She replied slowly.

"I will tell you what those letters mean. Shan't we step in here from the crowd?" She motioned to a doorway where she and Martha could stand. "They mean to me, especially, a very wonderful thing. It is really a secret, just between those letters and me, but I am glad to share it. They stand for four words of a question—'You will Come Again?'

A wonderful smile lighted her face. It was said down in the tenement district that just Miss Ellen's smile could heal the sick. Certain it was that it warmed the heart of Martha Hendricks. "To some people" Continued Miss Ellen, "the, letters mean something entirely different, but in my mind they stand for that loving question. I watch them every evening from the time I reach Fourth Street and they cheer me as I pass. And I know if I need help I can always answer their call".

Martha rubbed her hands over her eyes. "I've never even come once" she said. 'What 'd happen if I did"? "Magic," the word sounded crisp and clear. "Magic", repeated Miss Ellen.

"If magic's another word her help, it's what I need", said Martha. "I'm at the very end of my string."

"And the end's ravelled, is'nt it?" They both smiled at Miss Ellen's quick respense. "Let's go over and see if magic is'nt another word for help. Anyway dinner would help that ravelled feeling."

The two women crossed the street. They stopped beneath the flashing letters and passed into the building. Over the fireplace there hung a large missal bearing the words "The Young Women's Christian Association". Miss Ellen led Martha to it. "There," she said, "this is what Y. W. C. A. means to every one but you and me. Now I'll show you how they came to have their secret meaning".

One evening five or six years before, Miss Ellen had sought the Association, tired, discouraged and distressed. Miss Carton, whom the girls affectionately called the G. S. because General Secretary was too much to say in haste, had found her dejectedly sitting by the fire and had taken her to the G. S. bower. Troubles, fatigue, discouragement, magically passed away under Miss Carton's sympathetic touch, and when Miss Ellen at last rose to leave, she found herself refreshed in body, soul and spirit. At the door, Miss Carton pressed her guest's hand. "You Will Come Again"? she asked. "Sometime when you can not stand it another minute You Will Come Again?"

They were simple words but welcome ones to a homesick girl. Later as she looked up at the flashing letters their new significance occurred to her. Just as surely as that they would spring from the darkness could she be confident of support in the Association for which they stood.

Miss Ellen led Martha to the office of the General Secretary. Six years had passed since her first visit, but Miss Ellen never entered without saying "I have come again". Tonight as she said it, she added "And I've brought some one with me, Martha Hendricks, Miss Carton. She says she it at the end of her string—please help her".

An hour later, Miss Ellen, reading looked up from her book to see a radiant Martha approaching. "She's given you a new string, I judge," laughed Ellen. "Now for dinner and then home. Tell me did she help much"?

A new light flashed in Martha's eyes, "Help. I should say she did. And say you know the secret about the letter? Well I know where you found it. When I left Miss Carton, she says to me, "You Will Come Again and sudden-like I knew where you found those words for Y. W. C. A. There's comfort in them is'nt there? You Will Come Again?

And Ellen slipping her arm through Martha's, answered in happy confidence "We will."

Out in the darkness, four luminous letters sprang from the darkness in rhythmic flashes, held their light an instant, and were gone.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON DOWN SEVERAL POINTS

Made Moderate Gains and Losses During Past Seven Days

New Orleans, July 19.—The price of cotton last week made moderate gains and losses, finally closing at a net loss of 6 to 12 points. Weather and crop accounts were conflicting and caused nervous fluctuations. At times selling was heavy on good crop reports from the central and eastern portions of the belt and at others the demand was large because of the drought prevailing in Texas and Oklahoma, which bulls claimed caused much damage.

The first dale of the Georgia crop, reported Friday, and the adoption of short time by Lancashire spinners were bearish features of importance. Stimulating bullish entiment were private bureau crop condition reports, showing a loss of a fraction of a point since June 25.

This week the trade will put in much time guessing on the condition of the crop. The condition figures to be issued by the government on July 31 will carry the crop down to July 25. The weather in Texas will be of the greatest importance as it is generally considered that Texas is the critical point in the present crop situation.

New York, July 18.—Ten thousand dollars of a promised fund of $100,000 was forwarded today by the United Irish League of America to John E. Redmond to be used for the nationalist cause in Ireland

Monday Morning July 20, 1914.

A man is satisfied with wining a close race but it takes a clothes race to satisfy a woman.

About two years from now very few men will go to Virginia with the expectation of being treated right.

The "Main street" localities of South Carolina are beginning to get large enough to want to forget it.

Georgia's first bale of the 1914 cotton crop was marketed last Thursday, Texas always leads the procession and then comes Georgia.

We are following the lead of North Carolina Democracy and we are glad that it is making a noise like leading itself along broder lines.

An american citizen by the name of Peter would be called Pedro in Mexico, but, of course, if he went down there his name might soon be "mud."

A man can be in a crowd and make out like he wouldn't tell what happened, but just as soon as he gets home he has to tell a few things in self defense.

It is said that "Those who come up through great tribulations are stronger," but rather than have any tribulations at all, some people get ready and take part in the tango.

The more or less malevolently disposed Atlanta Journal remarks that "when a woman attempts to propound a conundrum she forgets either the question or the answer."

Huerta with his millions got away, but the rank and file belonging to the 30 cent crowd has to remain in Mexico and take its medicine, or get what is more or less coming to it.

Eastern North Carolina is outfitted with more opportunities than it can handle by itself. Those who expect to come in with the deluge of new comers should come right on and get down to business.

Plant City, Fla., proposes to finance a daily paper with $4,000. Owing to the fact that Plant City is a nice town, no forward looking newspaper man should go down there and give the town a run for its money.

A head-writer on the New York Sun wrote it "National Horse Show" but the type-setter made it appear in print "National Hose Show". After all, it is agreed that the show was both kinds, with the emphasis on hose.

Like they do up in Wall street, when they discount the effects of a calamity after they know for certain it is coming, we long ago discounted calamity howling. We knew 'steen years ago that if the Democrats ever got into power we could expect calamity howling from who laid the rail. Before the noise started, we discounted every single howl that has been howled since Woodrow Wilson became President.

Some people insist on doing away with the "plucking board" of the navy. Barely three years ago the people made the "plucking board" of the protectionists walk the plank, but it is now making a noise like it wants to come back and pluck the people "some more again already onct." Nay, Lucile Love. Nit, Margaret. For some time we have been worrying over "The Perils of Pauline," but we have sufficent worry to squander no end of it on the perils of the protectionist plucking board.

Says the Columbia State: "The State takes no stock in the suggestion that has been publically made that the Governor may bolt the primary." He may not bolt it, but he has been batting it in a manner to make us believe that he would not give the old-fashioned, lose-jointed primary for a dozen safeguarded primaries in which he is satisfied there is no safety for him. Many South Carolinians say that Blease is sure to be nominated for the United States Senate, but his mistrust of the primary shows that he has his doubts about his chances.

CAPT. IREDELL JONES.

Capt. Iredell Jones, who died at his home in Rock Hill, S. C., last Friday, was a contribution by North Carolina to her sister State. He was 73 years of age and the Columbia State says "he served his State well."

We knew Captain Jones and that is true in every particular. He was a tower of strength to his community. Rock Hill, not so many years ago was a straggling little wayside station on one railroad, but it is now a thriving manufacturing city with a population of probably 15,000 or more. To Captain Jones and other men of his intelligence and public spirit the city owes the fact that it is one of the notable instances of city building in South Carolina. The thriving city near the Catawba is a conspicuous example of the fact that its growth and development is due more to its men than to any advantage or adaptability that the location possessed. The handsome city there today is a monument to a group of constructive men in whose possession Rock Hill was particularly fortunate. Captain Jones was one of them, and he was a citizen of whom any city or State could boast with pride.

When practically a youth, Captain Jones entered the Confederate army and served in Hampton's Legion, a fine cavalry body headed by South Carolina's distinguished and eminent citizen, General Wade Hampton. At the first battle of Manassas, Captain Jones was stricken down by a bullet but he recovered from the wound and throughout the Civil War he followed the fortunes of Hampton. He bore himself with conspicuous gallantry and to the end his service was marked by great fidelity to duty. In reconstruction days he was faithful and bold in his loyalty to his county and his State, and we know of his usefulness and fearlessness in the days when he was right in the midst of the principal operations of the Ku-Klux Klan. He was never a politician but he was called on to serve his county, State and town in different ways, and in every particular public interests committed to his hands were assured of conscientious and capable attention.

Named for that eminent North Carolinian and kinsman, the late Judge James Iredell, Captain Jones in all the walks of life honored a distinguished ancestry. The Columbia State says of him: "A descendant of the staunchest stock of both the Carolinas, his life was true to their traditions and standards." He was ever considerate of others and was a courtly and courteous gentleman, unvarying in his respectful bearing towards everybody and receiving their greatest respect and honor. He has relatives in Wilmington and elsewhere in North Carolina, and the Iredell and Jones families, of which he was a scion, were among the most prominent in North Carolina from the earliest days in the history of the State.

THE MUDDLE IN THE THIRD DISTRICT.

Rather than proving a means of bringing about harmony among the Democrats of the Third Congressional district, the ballot primary called for August 1 for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Congress seems to have increased the muddle. The Hon. Charles R. Thomas has declined to be a candidate under the terms and rules laid down by the district committee, and in retiring from what he considers a "freeze out" he has given out a very blunt statement which indicates a situation to be greatly deplored throughout the State.

At his home in Newbern on Saturday night, Mr. Thomas gave out a signed address to the Democratic voters in the Third. He positively declined to enter the contest with his opponent, the Hon. Geo. E. Hood, of Goldsboro, and in doing so he expressed not only strong disapproval of the district committee's course in the matter but bitterly arraigned the committee along lines that have serious import. He refuses to pay $1,000 for the mere privilege of running for the nomination and declares that the entrance fee "is an excessive and unreasonable amount." He declares that the committee took unfair advantage of him in fixing the day of the primary on a date that would prevent him from canvassing the district, and he asserts that in several particulars the committee has been unfair to him and made it impossible for him to enter the campaign with an y hope of fair treatment or justice.

In this instance, The Star takes no side in a controversy which is hard enough for the Democrats of the Third to settle themselves, but we cannot restrain expression of profound regret that such an unfortunate situation could be possible in the Democratic organization. We will say, however, without regard to who is right or who is wrong, Mr. Thomas is eminently correct in his view that "it is undoubtedly the strongest argument for the legalized primary in North Carolina," which he declares is "necessary for the safety and continued success of the Democratic party in the State."

We have been looking forward with dread to just such a condition as exists in Democratic ranks in the Third, and we have long ago fully realized that the party was taking all sorts of chances in its lack of organic method of making nominations and its confused plan of organization along party lines. The situation in the Third and the Tenth districts is sufficient warning for the party in the State to set its house in order. It will be too late some day to even begin.

THE ANTI-DEMOCRATIC SCHEMES

The Republican and Progressive parties differ about sundry ismistic and punctiferous things, but they are thoroughly agreed on a tariff policy which produces more or less incidental revenue for the government and guarantees profits for the special privilege crowd. They are committed to the kind of tariff which enriches the few at the expense of the many—the very kind of freebooter tariff which brought on oblivion for Aldrich and made his name a byword and reproach among people who resent the idea of being made the asset of the protected interests.

The main point of view between Republican and Progressive leaders is protection—not for the people but for the interests that exploit the people. Their hook is baited with isms to catch suckers, so they can help to land protection. That is the special reason why the Republicans and Progressives look alike to us, and may as well be barking up a tree as to want us to listen at their fine preaching and submit to their infamous practice of protective exploitation.

It is hardly necessary to state that Senator Aldrich is not heard of any more now than if he had become extinct along about the time the dodo and the diplodocus went out of existence. The Aldrich-Payne-Smoot tariff cooked his political goose, but it should be remembered that the reason he is not pawing up much of the earth at this time is because oblivion was visited upon him on account of the policy of the protection party and intrests which he served so faithfully, without a thought of the tariff ridden people of the United States.

Aldrich became a living sacrifice to the Moloch of protective tariff iniquity, but instead of having it in for him the people should blame the protectionism which the Republican and Progressive parties stand for. Aldrich has his millions, and is not doing any suffering for lack of worldly means, comforts and luxuries, so we refuse to worry the least about the awful stillness of the retirement into which he lapsed and lingers. At times we almost forget that such a man as Aldrich is still in the land of the living, absorbing as much oyxgen as the balance of us, but we cannot forget the protective tariff parties for a minute. We would not trust them any further than we could fling a Missouri mule by seizing him by his tail and whirling the animal in a circle about our head before letting him go.

We guess that is about the way people look at it, too. The ancient and more or less classic saying used to be "Let Rome howl," but if we are in for letting anybody howl it is the calamity howlers. Since they are the hit dogs it is up to them to howl and do all the howling till they have to put a poultice an inch thick around their busted larynxes.

We are in for prosperity and plenty of it, the kind which President Woodrow Wilson wants to distribute among all the people, and not the kind of prosperity which anti-Democratic parties distribute among the privileged few.

It is said that people who live in a country that produces plenty of milk and butter get fat and saucy. In order to avoid the possibility of producing men who look like extra sized tooth picks, North Carolina should go into the dairying business.

The diplomatic crops has called on Carbajal, the new president of Mexico. Villa also expects to call on him, too, but the worst part of it is that Villa will exepct to be embraced with effusion and kissed with profusion, just to show there are no hard feelings between Carbajal and him.

The Virginia prohibitionalist who visited Georgia to ascertain how prohibition works there, returned home with the idea that if Virginia is to have prohibition it will have to do more work than it does in Georgia. In fact, they found out that it don't work at all if it can get out of it.

Twenty-five prominent members of the Board of Trade of Decatur "expected to take in Atlanta" last Wednesday. Of course, Atlanta made great preparations for them to come and take her in if they could do it, but since then Atlanta has been showing as much satisfaction as the lion which was visited by a nice fat kid.

Atlanta is trying to get us with a yarn about the mysterious disappearance of some of the ladies of the Dennis family, but here comes Jacksonville with a claim that $54,000 of the loot of yeggmen and train robbers is hidden somewhere around that lovely city. Hidden ertasurey always did make us sit up and take notice. If Jacksonville sees a lobster get off the train some morning, it won't be any lobster. It will be us.

The Mexican dictator made us nervous over his once boasted determination to hang right on and die with his boots on, but owing to the fact that Villa kept on edging in toward the city of Mexico, Huerta took the train for Puerta and is preparing to take a boat which cannot be rocked by anyone on board. For a long time Huerta showed signs of being a "bonehead" but is has turned out that he knew when to duck.

The declaration of Cone Johnson before a delighted audience last night that he is no myth, and that his father was a Buncombe boy, covers a multitude of sins, and The Citizen hereby recognizes him as a living and impressive reality. Our hats are off.—Asheville Citizen.

CURRENT COMMENT.

Durham seems to be leading in the adoption of modern methods. We believe it has the Morris Bank plan in active operation. Now it has organized a company designed to promote the building of homes and thus to increase the supply of homes that can be bought on moderately easy terms. In the larger cities investors are so active that a home of any size and price can be bought on easy terms, but the practice does not obtain widely in the smaller cities as yet. Durham is making a start in the right direction.—Raleigh News and Observer.

There have been added to the extensive and valuable collection of pictures in the Hall of History the last one ever made of the Confederate ram Albemarle. It was taken at the Norfolk navy yard, the vessel, which had been sunk at Plymouth, having been raised by the United States navy department and taken to Norfolk, where it was sold and cut up for scrap iron. The vessel was armored with railroad iron gathered from different parts of North Carolina by the order of Governor Vance and rolled into thin plates. This photograph completes the history of this, the most noted vessel ever built in North Carolina, this history being set out on the walls of the Hall of History.—Raleigh Times.

ROBESON'S CANDIDATES.

To the Editor of The Star:

In justice to Mr. G. L. Robertson, who is a candidate for register of deeds of Robeston county, we would like to ask for a little space to answer some statements made in your paper of last Sunday, the 12th, by your Lumberton correspondent.

Your readers will remember that your correspondent referred to a letter that Mr. Rcbertson has sent out in which he calls attention to the fact that in the present campaign Lumberton wants all the paying offices, and in answer to this statement your correspondent states that not any of the candidates or present officers in the court house are natives of Lumberton. He also tries to prove that Rowland and this vicinity has already had the lion's share. He says that Mr. D. W. Bullock, former register of deeds, and ex-Sheriff E. C. McNeill were both Rowland men. Both of these gentlemen live in Rowland now, but Mr. Bullock was born and raised in Alfordsville township and Sheriff McNeill was born and raised in Smith's township.

Mr. C. B. Skipper, the present efficient clerk of the court, might not have been born in Lumberton, but he was living there when elected. Mr. C. D. Townsend, who is now one of the county commissioners, and a candidate for county treasurer; Messrs. M. W. Floyd and Lester Townsend, candidates for register of deeds, may all have been born somewhere else, but they all live in Lumberton and have lived there for years.

Thompson township, or Rowland township, as it is now, has never furnished one of the court house officers, and Mr. Robertson is now the candidate of this section. It is true, as your Lumberton correspondent stated, that we have furnished a county commissioner for several years.

We hope you will give this the same publicity that you did your Lumberton correspondence last Sunday.

LOOKING FORWARD TO VISIT.

Editor The Star:

I always think of The Star as one of my friends when contemplating my annual visit to Wilmington, so pleasant were our business and social relations while I lived in that attractive and genial City by the Sea, and so I am dropping you this line to say that I am coming to see you as usual this summer.

I will arrive in Wilmington about July 25, and will be in that vicinity about five or six weeks. I hope to do some work among the churches of that section, supplying vacant pulpits and holding revivals. I am already engaged for most of the time, but might be able to fill another appointment or two in the latter part of August. My work here at Joplin was never in better condition. The Lord has been very greatly blessing us this summer, giving us a continuous revival in our regular services.

General conditions here are very rapidly improving. The best wheat and oat crops in Missouri and Kansas that were ever produced are now in the shock, and are getting into the sack as rapidly as they can be threshed. I have never seen a better prospect for corn. The season has been all that could be asked for. The first week in July we had good rains every day. Corn is now beginning to tassle, and has been well cultivated, and if the rains continue another fortnight, the crop will surpass anything on record.

Some of the things in this letter I would like to say to my many friends and acquaintances over North Carolina but have not time to write them all, and as your paper goes to most of them anyway, if you care to publish this, or any part of it that you think worth the trouble, I will appreciate it, and you may count me your true friend, and ready to serve you in any way I can while in the dear old State. Yours very sincerely,

C. F. WHITLOCK,
Pastor Second Baptist Church, Joplin, Missouri.

CLEAN-UP CRUSADE IN NEWBERN

Aim Is to Make it Cleanest City in the State.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Newbern, N. C., July 18.—Newbern bids fair to soon become one of the cleanest cities in the State. There is already some talk of starting a crusade against the wharf rats which infest the city and it is probable that this work will be started soon, but in the meantime the city health officers and the sanitary officers are doing everything within their power to clean up the place. Each morning two men start out on a tour of the city and they continue their trip until late in the afternoon, visiting all of the fish houses, cafes, meat markets and making an inspection of many private lots.

Wherever filth is found, the owners of the places are given warning to clean up at once. Within a day or two the officers return for another inspection and if they discover that their warning has not been heeded, a warrant is at once sworn out for the violator and he is haled before Mayor Bangert and heavily fined. A number of persons have already been before the mayor and others who do not poin in the crusade to clean up will be carried before him. In addition to making Newbern a ratless town it is also desired to make it flyless and steps toward this end are to be pushed forward.

THE RAMBLER.

In the daily paper the other day The Rambler read of the recent illness of Henry Blount of Wilson. Too keenly does The Rambler feel the bond of tenderness to attempt to speak the good qualities of that splendid character with so big a heart. There came to the mind of the Rambler the words of the late Colonel Risden Tyler Bennett—somewhat of a genius himself. It was on the occasion of a lecture to be delivered in Wadesboro and Henry Blount was the lecturer. Colonel Bennett was to introduce the speaker. He said:

"When words are scarce, they are seldom spent in vain,
And they breathe truth, who breathe their words in pain."

"I am fortunate in my attitude this evening. He who spoke the prologue on eggs and butter should walk on eggs. To enlarge the idea, the interlocutor on such an occasion as this should be apprised of the subject of the orator's plea and make every point affluent to the leading discourse. Nothing delights a speaker more than the rapport of his hearers. Their applause, rendered without reserve, is to him the symbol of the future and a herald of eternity. Thus inspired your orator peoples the occasion and dialogues with heaven. The Prophet Daniel added to his intercourse with lions the supreme gift of a natural orator. I present a citizen of one of the foremost counties of this gigantic commonwealth, but lately aroused to its high mission; and also a guest of the most progressive town in the State in which the leading opinion esteems a public debt a public blessing. Your orator bears the unmatchable name of Henry Blount."

Following this unique introduction, Henry Blount held in tense interest his audience for almost two hours and after the lecture, Colonel Bennett summed up the lecture in this wise:

"Henry Blount has lectured here. He spoke as the owner of a virgate of land and motored with celerity from theme to theme. Ostensibly bent upon his favorite theme—"Beyond the Alps Lies Italy"—a kaleidescope is not a match for Prince Hal in his shifting sentencies. All hands smiled and then laughed and laughed again as he meandered life and galloped adversity, whispered love and prologued eggs and butter. He is a remarkable man in address—not a hint from another did he steal—whatever he said was his own and no man could report it. Now that he is overpast, we pause and bid Prince Hal come again. If he duplicates his effort we may the better take the measure of his mind."

Two such men seldom came together on a platform—both so unique and beyond adequate description. Each loved the other. Bennett has gone. Blount is still with us—although he is not able to take the platform.

ANOTHER NUISANCE NEEDS ATTENTION.

To the Editor of The Morning Star:, Wilmington, N. C.

Dear Sir: Much has been said, and correctly, about flies, rats, cats and other germ distributors, but they have not included myriad of negro boys that infest steamboat and railroad terminals.

It would be extravagant to say half-clad, their garments reeking with filth, mingling and rubbing against women and children, very often in a rude manner.

Why shouldn't this nuisance be suppressed? JOHN W. HARPER.

FARMERS' INSTITUTE AT A. & M. AUGUST 25, 26, 27

Programme Being Arranged—Experts to Participate.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., July 19.—A complete programme is being arranged for the farmers' institutes which will be held at the A. & M. College August 25, 26 and 27. Although there are a number of invited speakers who have not yet accepted, those on the roster already are enough to insure the meeting being a success. Dr. Tait Butler will speak on the value of pastures for like stock; Geo. A. Holderness on pasture crops in Eastern North Carolina, and A. L. French, of Cascade, Va., on live stock in the Piedmont sections. Other men on the programme are F. T. Mechan, of Iredell county; T. L. Gwynn, of Haywood county; Dan. T. Gray, L. W. Shook, R. S. Curtis, A. J. Reid, and S. M. Salisbury. These all come in the animal husbandry division. The principal speakers in the other departments of farm life have not yet been secured.

Dan. T. Gray, chief of the bureau of animal husbandry, announces that three new men will be added to the work in North Carolina by the middle of August. These men will be employed by the State and National bureaus of animal husbandry, and will work chiefly in the State as demonstrators. One of them will be in the office work.

It is the prediction that the freshmen enrollment at the A. & M. this fall will be the largest in the history of the institution. Up to date the registration has gone beyond the hundred mark, and new applications are coming in every day. The largest registration is during the two weeks preceding the opening of school.

ILLUSTRATIVE METHOD OF TEACHING IS PRESENTED.

By Prof. E. L. Hughes, of Greenville, S. C., to N. C. Teachers.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Greensboro, N. C., July 17.—The illustrative method of teaching is being presented before the Normal College summer school and insititute by E. L. Hughes, superintendent of the city schools of Greenville, S. C. This method was devised by Mr. Hughes after many years of investigation and effort and is being received enthusiastically by the North Carolina teachers.

Besides showing how readily children will grasp lessons in various studies when simply and naturally illustrated, Mr. Hughes shows simple methods for making the apparatus. In the training school teachers are given practical lessons on globe and map making with apparatus devised by Mr. Hughes after years of experimenting. Daily before the assembled teachers maps and globes are constructed by the instructor.

In his lecture and in private conversation Mr. Hughes says the child will grasp a lesson the quickest when it is illustrated, a process which saves much talking and explaining and which avoids repetition and unsatisfactory results. By map drawing geography is most readily understood.

He has adopted a method for making globes which requires only materials that may be found near any school. When completed these globes are as serviceable as those which cost $25 or $30. Many teachers are being taugat how to make them. With them children can be taught both political and physical geography.

NEED MARKET FACILITIES

Mr. Herring Points Out Where Farmer and Consumer Both Lose Under Present Methods.

Mr. J. P. Herring, farm demonstration agent for New Hanover County, is working to further the suggestion of Mr. Hugh MacRae, made to City Council some weeks ago, urging the establishment of a municipal market house for the farmers and truck growers of the section. In the following communication to The Star Mr. Herring points out how, under the present method of marketing farm products the producer and the consumer are both losing money, and how they could be benefited by a market house:

"I wish, through the columns of your paper, to call the attention of the consumers of Wilmington to a few facts relative to our market conditions. The meat dealers and fishermen have a market, but the farmer has none. He backs his cart or wagon up to the sidewalk on Dock street, between Front and Second, and as you pass down between these wagons you feel like you are passing by a Gypsy camp, or going through some other ante-bellum performance.

"Now, these poor, weather-beaten "clod hoppers," who feed the city and give life to business, have no place to hide their heads from the boiling sun or shelter their jackets from the rain. I wish I had the power to make those responsible for these conditions stand by these carts some day until the "faithful sons of toil" had sold out.

"Then we would soon have a market where the farmers could meet the housewives of Wilmington and furnish them the necessities of life at much lower prices than now prevail.

"It has been said that man's tenderest spot is his pocket book. I want to touch it, if I can, for the farmer has need of better pay for his work.

"Now, Mr. Consumer, let us figure a little. One day this week a farmer brought to your city a load of water melons. He drove around from store to store for a considerable time, trying to find a buyer (and he may have passed your home). The dealers all told the farmer that they had Southern melons on hand, and if they bought home grown melons the others would be a total loss, for who will buy melons shipped in from elsewhere when they can get the home-grown product?

"After a time, Mr. Farmer came to Mr. John's store. Mr. John told Mr. Farmer that, being a friend of his, he would take the melons at 15 cents each. So Mr. Farmer, being glad to meet an old friend, and not wishing to haul his melons back home, sold out to Mr. John at 15 cents per melon. Mr. Farmer had just left with his empty wagon when Mr. Consumer came along. He asked Mr. John the price of his melons and was told that they were fine, home-grown melons, and would sell for 50 cents each.

"Mr. Consumer purchased one for half a dollar.

"Now, suppose, Mr. Consumer, we had a market place where you could go without taking the risk of getting a sun-stroke instead of a nice, cool melon, and you had met Mr. Farmer there, and paid him 30 cents for a nice melon. You would have saved 33 1-2 per cent on your purchase, and Mr. Farmer would have received 100 per cent. more for his product.

"Another farmer had tomatoes which he sold for 75 cents a bushel. The dealer sold these to the consumer at two quarts for 15 cents. How does this transaction figure out? We will allow four quarts lost by rot and four quarts lost in measuring out in small quantities, leaving the dealer 24 quarts to sell. He gets $1.80 for these, making a profit of $1.05, or 140 per cent. Suppose the farmer and the consumer had gotten together and traded. Each would have gained 52 1-2 cents, or 70 per cent.

"I could go on through the whole list of farm products in this way, and give facts that I can prove by witnesses. If any one doubts the figures I have cited above. I can prove them by getting buyer and seller together, a thing I would be glad to do. That is what I am working for.

"When Mr. Hugh MacRae asked City Council to arrange a market place for the farmers, I had hopes of better conditions, but it seems that nothing is going to materialize; why I cannot see. For Mr. MacRae is doing much for the development of our community, and his suggestion was a valuable one. But he does not need any boosting from me.

"The members of the Housewives' League are interested in this matter, for they can never better the market conditions save by bringing the producer and the consumer nearer together. How long would it be before we got some action on the matter, if each member of the League would call up a member of Council each day and urge them to give us an up-to-date market. If the ladies back Mr. MacRae up in his request for a market, we will get it.

"The farmers desire a better market place and feel that they deserve some consideration. But the citizens must first see the need of it and let Council know their wants. The members of Council are not going to spend money to do a thing that nobody wants. So long as the consumers do their purchasing at long distance, just so long will they receive what the individual dealer has in stock, and at a higher price than if bought in person and carried home by the purchaser.

"One merchant in a city of 21,000 inhabitants kept an account to determine the cost of deliveries, and found that it cost on an average of nine or ten cents to make a delivery. This, of course, was paid by the consumer. Allowing one delivery a day (taking off two weeks for a vacation) we find that at nine cents per day the consumer pays $27 a year for deliveries. Not much, but it would help considerably where the income is limited.

"Can we farmers expect any consideration on this proposition? Are we to endure the heat and rain and other elements to produce our goods and then have to bring it to the city and sell it under even greater hardships, in order that we may receive about 33 1-3 per cent of what the consumer pays for it? And then be censured for not providing better things for our families?

"We are not begging anything of you, but showing you where by helping us you will also help yourselves.

"J. P. HERRING,
"Demonstration Agent."

THE JOY OF CHRISTIANITY

Rev. G. T. Adams in Open Air Discourse Shows That Christ's Gospel Teaches Gladness.

In an open air service held on the lawn of Fifth Street Methodist church last evening Rev. G. T. Adams preached a most helpful and inspiring sermon in which he emphasized the fact that Christianity is a joyful religion and that Christ while He was in the world went about through the cities and towns preaching a gospel of gladness and of happiness. Mr. Adams took as his text Luke 8:1.

Seats sufficient for the several hundred members of the congregation had been placed on the lawn in front of the parsonage which adjoins the church. Electric lights had been provided and the arrangement was ideal. Standing on the steps of his own home Mr. Adams had a pulpit that was in every way suited to the service.

There was no instrumental music but the congregation entered heartily into the singing of old hymns and these sung in the open somehow seemed to have an added charm. When the matter was put to a vote it was unanimously decided to make the open air meetings on Sunday evenings a permanent feature during the warm summer months. Next Sunday night there will be several cornetists who will render music.

There is no sad note in Christianity, Mr. Adams declared, but on the contrary it is the most joyful religion in the world. The angelic hosts announced the birth of Christ with songs of glad tidings and throughout His life on earth He always made it a point to bring joy and gladness to those to whom he preached.

Christ brought His message to a race that was bowed down with sorrow and sin and was oppressed with the burdens and trials of life, said the speaker, and it is indeed a blessed assurance to know that through Christ we can be reconciled to God. Previous to His coming into the world the human race had feared God for they had only known Him through nature. He declared that God of nature awes with His manifestation of power and there is little to inspire mankind with a love for Him. But Christ revealed Him as the kind loving father, as one who can save from sin and as one who can bring rest to His children. It is no wonder, said the speaker, that from a few followers this religion has spread until its followers number millions of men and women.

Not only was mankind burdened with sorrow and sin but it was anxious to know about the immortality of soul, said Mr. Adams. There was a feeling that the soul should live, but no positive revelation that such was the case. In answer to this cry of the human heart Christ gave to the world that matchless 14th chapter of St. John's Gospel in which He promised to give not only rest and peace in this world, but promised also that in His father's house are many mansions. He urged His followers not to be troubled because when this life is over there was a home prepared for them.

Since Christ has brought this great gospel to the world and has revealed God's goodness and kindness to us, it behooves His followers to be joyous examples of the gospel of Christ, the speaker continued. Of course, there are trials and troubles, said he, but these are only like the cloud that hides the sun for a moment. We should ever keep in mind the great truth of the teachings of Christ, he said, and at all times do what we can to sound the note of gladness and joy.

MRS. C. S. M'CLUSKEY DEAD.

Died Yesterday at Hospital, From Injuries Sustained in Runaway.

Never having regained consciousness from injuries sustained by being thrown from a runaway vehicle Tuesday evening, at Winter Park, Mrs. Hattie McCluskey, wife of Mr. C. S. McCluskey, died at the James Walker Memorial Hospital yesterday morning at 11:30 o'clock. It was hoped at first that she would recover, but close examination by the physicians showed that she had suffered an internal fracture of the skull, and medical science could render but little aid.

The accident occurred late Tuesday evening on the turnpike opposite the old race track. Mrs. McCluskey and her sister, Miss Annie Jones, were in a light spring wagon on their way to the sound on a pleasure trip. The horse became frightened, and they were both thrown from the vehicle. Miss Jones had her right arm severely sprained, but otherwise was not seriously hurt.

Mrs. McCluskey was 30 years old on July 9th. She was a faithful member of Sixth Street Christian Advent church. She was devoted to her home and her family. Of her, it could be truly said that she was a Christian in all that that word implies. She delighted in making her friends happy, and to do all the good she could.

She and her husband lived at No. 717 South Eighth street, and the body was taken there yesterday afternoon. Hundreds of friends called during the afternoon and evening, to offer condolence and sympathy to the bereaved family.

Surviving Mrs. McCluskey besides her grief-stricken husband are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Jones, who live at No. 713 South Eighth street; one sister, Miss Annie Jones, and four brothers, Messrs. Walter, Sam, Green and Zack Jones, all of this city.

The funeral will be conducted from the residence this afternoon at 4 o'clock, by Rev. J. P. King, pastor of Sixth Street Christian Advent church. The interment will be in Bellevue cemetery.

FOUND DEAD IN BED

Mrs. Ada Sneeden, Passes Away Suddenly on the Sound

Mrs. Ada Sneeden, wife of Mr. T. V. Sneeden, and a woman of many estimable qualities, died suddenly yesterday morning about 4 o'clock while she slept at her home on Greenville Sound. Many friends will hear of her passing with sorrow. She was about 40 years of age and is survived by her husband and three children, two little sons and a daughter. The funeral will be conducted from the family home at 10 o'clock this morning by Rev. Mr. Marshall and the interment will be in the Giles burying ground at Wrightsville.

HOW LOT FAILED IN LIFE

"The Failure of Seeming Success" Subject of Strong Sermon by Rev. Dr. Wm. H. Milton.

Continuing his series of sermons on Old Testament characters, Rev. Dr. Wm. H. Milton preached a strong sermon yesterday morning at St. James Episcopal church. "The Failure of Seeming Success" was the theme discussed and the life of Lot was used as an illustration of many seemingly successful lives today. The text was taken from the 13th chapter of Genesis beginning with the 10th verse.

Lot cannot be classed as one of the really great characters of the Old Testament, Dr. Milton stated, although he had all the outward marks of success. Contrasted with the life of Abram, who was content to remain poor and who was not anxious to secure worldly possessions, the speaker said that there is little doubt but that Lot's fellow citizens regarded him as the more successful. However, time has shown us differently and we now know that Abram chose the better part.

We are still prone to judge worth by outward circumstances, Dr. Milton continued, but this does not always furnish a true index to a man's character. It is only by getting a composite picture of his life and by observing it for a long time that we are able to get a correct view.

In choosing the Plain of the Jordan Lot was making a choice not simply for the moment only but one that should affect his whole life. It showed his attitude towards life and revealed a fixed habit of thinking. He was selfish and what followed was the result of selfishness.

No man is safe whose ruling motive is selfishness, Dr. Milton declared. He condemned severely the tendency of the present age to make money and power the dominating forces in determining a life career. Our aim in selecting our work in life, he said, should be to do the most good possible, to help the humanity and to promote the general happiness of our fellowman.

We must consider not only the effect of our decision in choosing a life's work upon ourselves but must also take into consideration how it will effect our children, Dr. Milton continued. He showed that frequently it happens that men thrown into unfavorable environments are able to resist the blighting influences but their children fall an easy prey to them. Indeed the speaker felt that in this Lot had made his greatest mistake. He never did anything especially bad himself, but the full effects of his selfish decision was shown in his children's lives. Dr. Milton condemned the practice of parents heaping up wealth that will entangle their children in a mass of temptation.

By our selfishness and greed we are frequently cut off from the best of life, Dr. Milton continued. He was thankful that the best things of life are open to all whether rich or poor. The essential elements of happiness such as friendships, love of home and family, admiration for the heroic, the abiding presence of God, all these and many other blessings are open to all regardless of wealth or the position in the social scale that may be occupied, said the speaker.

Continuing the speaker said that Lot was a type of many of our citizens of the present day. He was a useful citizen and the wrong doing of his children was not due to his example but was on account of their environment. Just Lot described him well, Dr. Milton declared. He was righteous within the law. He was just to the extent of the law's full demands. He was not generous, but he was not unjust. He was avaricious, but wholly within the sphere of justice. He would have died rather than steal. He never sank into fraud, nor did he rise to the heights of generosity.

That is the attitude of most of so-called big business, the speaker declared, and it also represents the attitude of the strictly moral man. Such men stand in the golden mean between the baseness of unjustice and the heights of generosity. They are never to rise above themselves.

What they need, Dr. Milton said, is to be lost from themselves and to be saved to the higher and nobler things of life. If only for a moment they could catch the passion of unselfishness which has moved men in all ages to undertake noble tasks for the relief of mankind, he said in conclusion, it would be well worth while.

FRATERNITY MEN COMING

State Chapter of Phi Delta Theta Meets at Wrightsville Beach This Week

The State Convention of the University of North Carolina Chapter of the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity will be held at Wrightsville Beach Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week, and the meeting promises to be one of the season's social features. Among the features of the convention will be a banquet at the Seashore Hotel, a sailing trip to the ocean and a souvenir dance Friday night at Lumina.

The mornings of the convention will be given over to the business sessions, and while these will be of importance the members, the social functions and recreation features will be the principal events in connection with the meeting. Indications are that the gathering will be very largely attended, not only be the college lads themselves, but also by many of their sisters and girl friends. Many of the alumni will bring their wives with them, and while the occasion of the convention will be largely a gathering of the alumni and active members of the North Carolina Chapter, a number of the members from other colleges outside the State where there are chapters of the fraternity are expected to attend.

Organized in 1885, the North Carolina Chapter of Phi Delta Theta has grown to be one of the strongest in the country. The charter members, number 11, were as follows: Joel Hines, Richard S. Neal, William H. Carroll, A. C. Shaw, T. A. Marshall, R. S. White, W. H. McDonald, A. M. Simmons, O. D. Batchler, G. M. McKimmon, and W. E. Headen. A feature of the coming meeting will be the gathering for the first time since they left college of the charter members still living.

Phi Delta Theta is one of the largest of the National Greek Letter Fraternities, and was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, in 1848, one of the men instrumental in the organization of the Society was Benjamin Harrison, afterwards President of the United States. Its membership now is over 18,000 and it has 78 active chapters in the principal American Colleges and two in Canada.

The Fraternity has a brilliant list of famous alumni, including one President of the United States, two Vice Presidents, several Cabinet officers, Governors, college presidents and army and navy officers. Attorney General McReynolds and Secretary of Agriculture Houston, of President Wilson's cabinet, are members of the Fraternity, also General Frederick Funston, now heading the military forces at Vera Cruz. Eugene Feild, Ray Stannard Baker and Grantland Rice are among the Fraternity's literary lights.

FUNERAL OF MR. P. N. FICK HELD YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

Fire Department Attended the Services in a Body—Alarm Tolled

Following a short service at the family residence, No. 305 South Sixth street, yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, the funeral of Mr. Peter N. Fick, who died Friday afternoon, was held at 5 o'clock from St. Paul's Luthern Church, conducted the services in the absence of Rev. F. B. Clausen, the pastor.

The services were largely attended by the sorrowing friends of the deceased, and also by the members of the Fire department in a body. During the services several musical selections were rendered by a choir composed of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Rehder, Miss Emma Hutaff, Mr. C. W. Polvogt, Mrs. F. B. Clausen and Mrs. Schulken, the organist.

Following the services at the church, the remains were borne to Oakdale cemetary for interment. The active pall bearers, all members of the fire department, rode to the cemetery in one of the hose wagons, which was draped in mourning. The engine Adrian, of which Mr. Fick had been the engineer for the past 17 years, or ever since the paid department was organized, also formed part of the precession, and was likewise draped in black. The firemen and the department apparatus accompanied the procession as far as Seventh and Red Cross streets.

The grave at the cemetery was literally covered with floral designs, of which there were more than 125. Especially handsome designs were sent by the Germania Club, formerly the Howard Relief Fire Company; the Knights of Pythias, the Woodmen of the World, Hose Company No. 2 and No. 3 and the firemen from the headquarters station.

The pallbearers were as follows: Honorary: Messrs. B. Bellois, J. H. Bornemann, H. Gerdes, M. G. Tiencken, W. G. A. Oterson, Geo. H. Heyer, Chas. Wessell, J. W. H. Fuchs, A. D. Warren, Martin Rathgen, J. D. Doscher, Sr., Chief Chas. Schnibben and Dr. J. T. Schonwald; active; W. P. Monroe, assistant chief fire department; W. A. Canady, Captain No. 2; L. Freimuth, Captain No. 3; T. B. Jackson, engineer; J. H. Litgen, captain fire boat Atlantic; W. B. Carroll, assistant foreman, chemical Company No. 1.

While the services were being held at the church, the fire alarm bell was tolled by Mr. G. T. Williamson, superintendent of the system.

MOUNTAIN EXCURSION COMING

Seaboard's Big Three-Day Annual Event From the Up-Country

The annual excursion to Wilmington, Wrightsville, Southport, and Carolina Beach, which the Seaboard Air Line always runs from the mountain to the seashore during the Summer will reach here this year on July 28th tomorrow week, and arrangements are being made by the road to handle a very large crowd, according to information received at local transportation offices here.

The excursion is from Rutherfordton, Shelby, Lincolnton, Charlotte, and all station as far down this way as Hamlet. The train which will be a special will leave Rutherfordton at 7 A. M. and will arrive here at 4:45 P. M., on Tuesday, the 28th. The rates from all points have been made very low, $4.00 from Rutherfordton and Lincolnton being the highest, while Charlotte and Monroe will get a rate of $3.50 for the round trip. Returning the special will leave Wilmington on the 30th, at 8 A. M., giving nearly two whole days at the seashore. The best order is assured by the Seaboard officials who expect to handle one of the largest excursion crowds on record to this section.

THEATRICAL

Today inaugurates another week at the popular photoplay house which promises to be equal to the past week's big offerings exactly. Twenty-eight reels of the newest and best motion pictures have been booked for the week, and some of them are some of the biggest two and three-reel releases ever shown in Wilmington.

Today's bill consists of five reels, headed by a mammoth two-reel Northwestern drama, "Snow Drift." This is one of the biggest stories of the Canadian Northwest country ever staged for the movies, and features Oscar Lund and Barbara Tennant, two of the greatest emotional dramatic stars with the Eclair company of Feature Players. It's a gripping story, full of thrills from beginning to end, and will score a distinct hit at Wilmington's biggest and coolest theatre tomorrow.

"The Forest Vampires," a mediaeval romance splendidly presented by the Domino Players in a full reel, comes next, and will be found one of the most enthralling single-reel dramas ever witnessed. It features such stars as Clara Williams and Barney Sherry, and many other big screen favorites.

The Princess Players will present a full-reel drama, "In Her Sleep," which is something entirely out of the ordinary in a dramatic offering. It features Miss Muriel Ostriche, the youngest of all leading ladies, with Morgan Jones and other screen stars.

"Bessie the Detectress, In Tick, Tick, Tick," is a rousing Joker comedy, which features Bess Meredyth, the peerless comedy actress, with Frank Lanning and George Larkin. Five reels—and the price is but five cents.

At The Grand Today.

The Grand Theatre, the people's big amusement delight and the cool joy spot of Wilmington (bear this latter especially in mind), is ready to open up another great week. In fact, the greatest week so far in its history. It will start the ball rolling today with one of the starriest shows it has ever been the pleasure of Wilmington folks to behold. Added to the film part of each performance will be special numbers of music.

Heading the films will be a splendid special feature, one folks will no doubt clamor to see. It is Edison's "The Two Vanrevels," an elaborate moving picturization of the famous novel by Booth Tarkington, and the story is true to the intensely interesting novel. In the portrayal of the film story, which it takes two big reels to set forth on the screen, will be seen such popular Thespians as charming Mabel Trunnelle, and clever Bigelow Cooper and Herbert Prior.

The greatest laugh producer yet turned out in a film is also a star today in Kalem's "And the Dance Went On." It is an awfully jolly railroad comedy, with such well known comedy folks as Richard Coburn, J. Lindley Phipps, Gustave Niendorf, Billie Rhodes and Sylvia Ashton in the cast.

The latest Hearst-Selig Pictorial Review, vividly depicting the freshest current events, is also a big feature today. It is something every one looks for and therefore will note with gladness its presentation at The Grand today.

MISS ETHEL WILLIAMS
BRIDE OF MR. COLEY.

Lumberton, N. C., July 19.—Wednesday evening in the First Baptist church a beautiful wedding occurred, when Miss Ethel Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Quitman T. Williams, was married to Mr. Junius Addison Coley, of St. Pauls, Rev. C. L. Greaves, pastor of the bride, assisted by Rev. J. A. Snow, of St. Pauls, performing the ceremony.

The bride entered the church with her father, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, Mr. C. H. C. Dailey, of California. Her gown was of ivory satin brocade en train and trimmed with lace and chiffon with pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of Bride roses and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Marcus W. Floyd was dame of honor and wore pink crepe de chine with pearl trimmings and carried pink sweet peas. The maid of honor wore blue crepe de chine and carried carnations. The bridesmaids were Miss Lina Gough, Miss Margaret Pitman, Miss Annie Ruth Caldwell and Miss Lillian Barker. All were dressed in white lingerie and carried carnations. The groomsmen were Mr. J. C. Lentz, of St. Pauls; Mr. Fred D. Williams, of Fayetteville; Mr. John F. Butler, of Fayetteville, and Mr. Simon Caldwell. Two little flower girls, Annie Grace Williams and Elsie Thompson wore dainty white dresses and carried a basket of roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Coley left on the 10 o'clock train for Wrightsville Beach, where they will spend some time.

Wrightsville Beach

Mr. Joe S. Mitchell, of Florence, S. C., spent the week end at the Oceanic Hotel with Mrs. Mitchell, who is spending some time there.

The low week-end rates yesterday brought to the city about 1,300 visitors, the largest Sunday crowd of the present season. Most of the excursionists spent the day at the beach.

Mr. E. H. Storr, of Richmond, Va., a representative of the Peters Cartridge Company and one of the leading professional shots in America, is at the Oceanic Hotel to attend the State Shoot, which will be held under the auspices of hte New Hanover Gun Club tomorrow and Wednesday.

Yesterday's Charlotte Observer: "Dr. Yates W. Faison left yesterday morning for Wrightsville Beach to spend a week or ten days at the Seashore Hotel. — Mr. Thurman Long, who has been undergoing treatment in a local hospital for a few days, is out, and will return to Wrightsville Beach Wednesday to spend a month."

Among those arriving yesterday at the Hanover Inn are S. K. Nash, Lumberton; Mrs. H. C. Flower, Miss Ruth Flower, Miss Elizabeth Flower and nurse, Kansas City; Miss Gladys Gorman, Durham; Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Hall, Maxton; J. R. Cheek and Conrad Glass, Maxton; Mr. and Mrs. Jno. W. Dunn, Newbern; R. H. McDuffie, Feyetteville.

Though yesterday was somewhat disagreeable from the elementary standpoint, the many visitors on Wrightsville Beach passed the time off most enjoyably. The concerts at the hotels in the morning, surf bathing and the afternoon concert at Lumina and another splendid concert at the pavilion last night contributed to their entertainment.

Despite the fact that many of the six-day excursionists from points in Georgia and Alabama left yesterday for their homes, all the hotels and boarding houses on the beach were doing a capacity business last evening, with arrivals still coming in on every train. The rush season at the resort is on indeed, and from now until September the season will be at its height.

Yesterday's Charlotte Observer: "Mrs. E. T. Cansler and daughter, Miss Sarah Cansler, and the latter's guest, Miss Mary Rhodes, of Danville, Ky., and Miss Annie Dewey Chambers returned home last night from Wrightsville Beach, where they spent a week at the Seashore Hotel. Miss Miriam Parker, who accompanied the party, is spending the week-end with Miss Florrie Northrop, of Wilmington, at her summer home on the beach."

terstate One-step competition will be held at Lumina tonight. No prizes will be awarded to-night, the purpose of tonight's contest being to select the couples that are to represent the different states in the final contest on Tuesday night. The rivalry that usually exists between different localities should make this the most interesting of any of the competitions yet given at Lumina. There will probably be at least six or seven states represented in the contest. The prize for this contest is an unusually handsome silver cup of the same design as those given in the Castle House competitions.

The preliminary contest in the In-

Yesterday's arrivals at the Seashore Hotel included the following: Julian Jeffries, Charlotte, E. A. Muldrow, Florence, C. A. Cox, Dr. C. H. Lennon, V. G. Pleasants, Rowland; R. H. Sclater, Atlanta; T. S. Pace, Wilson; T. G. Williamson, Richmond; W. H. Allen, Goldsboro; W. A. Allen, Kinston; R. W. Powell, Goldsboro; M. Cartwright, Norfolk; Lula Baker, Goldsboro; Marjorie Butrell, Norfolk; W. C. P. Butrell, Selma, N. C., Mrs. John I. Chipley and Miss I. Chipley, Greenwood, S. C., Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Wilkes, Atlanta; Mr. and Mrs. Jno. F. Kiser and master J. F. Kiser, Atlanta; J. W. LaMotte, Baltimore; A. H. Long, Chattannoga; W. G. Smith, Latta, S. C., M. C. Morriss, H. K. Surratt, Chattanooga; G. L. Wimberly, Jr., W. L. Thorp, Rocky Mount; Donald Clement, Salisbury; J. Mortimer, Jr., Lumber, S. C., G. W. Roper, Clio.

Arrivals at the Oceanic Hotel yesterday included R. A. Ricks, Richmond; Jake C. Gilmer, Charlotte; D. Huseman, Washington; Jessie D. Blount, Swansboro; J. B. Tuggle, Richmond; J. W. Smathers, Asheville; N. J. Edwards, Goldsboro; C. E. Goodrick, Atlanta; Misses M. Hall and F. Park, Raleigh; J. O. Rankin, Jr., Gastonia; L. C. Holt, Burlington; J. J. Thigpen, Tarboro; Geo. F. Wright, Elizabeth City; G. Crosby, Grand Rapids; R. L. McLeod, Maxton; J. H. Clark, Elizabethtown; Robert Frazer, Chester; Mrs. T. C. Diggs, Robert Diggs, Richmond; Jno. Culleman, Clarence C. Smith, Richmond; W. H. Henderson, Wilson; W. L. Lane W. P. Smith and L. J. Smith, Goldsboro; C. P. Frazier, Brooklyn; Miss Flora Thompson, McDonald's; W. A. Ray, Fayetteville.

A practice shoot for the State trap tournament which begins Tuesday morning and will continue through Wednesday will be held at the traps on the northern extension near the Oceanic Hotel this afternoon beginning at 1 o'clock. Already a number of those who will contest for the handsome prizes offered have arrived and others will come today. All interested in the events are invited to take part in the shoot this afternoon. There will be a number of local sportsmen who will compete in the events. This is the first shoot to be held on the beach and it is likely that there will be more who will take part this year than were here last year when a most successful State shoot was held on the grounds of the New Hanover Gun Club at 17th and Market streets.

PERSONAL PARAGRAPHS.

Mr. Ferdinand Richter left yesterday for Charleston, S. C., to visit friends and relatives.

Mr. Henry M. Bryan, who is with the Clyde Line Steamship Company in this city, has gone to Seneca, S. C., where he will spend his vacation.

—Mr. C. C. Parker has returned from his vacation which he spent with friends and relatives at Durham and at other points in Piedmont North Carolina.

LOCAL DOTS.

—Promptly at 3 o'clock in the morning when all sensible people are supposed to be in bed unless they are kept awake by urgent business, the lights for the clock in the Court house tower are extinguished. This has occasioned some difficulty to certain citizens who are up early and they have entered a vigorous protest. The Star is reminded that it is its solemn duty to see that the lights in the court house tower burn all night in order that there may be no difficulty in telling the time.

True bills, charging arson, were returned by the Buncombe county grand jury against Bishop C. R. Harris, of the Second Episcopal district of the A. M. E. Zion church, which includes Blue Ridge, Albemarle and Southeastern Virginia conferences, and one of the leading negro churchmen of this State, W. J. Trent, one of the prime movers of the Y. M. I., in Asheville, now in Atlanta; Noah Murrough, W. P. Pegram, W. P. Brooks, Elijah McDowell, Dr. J. W. Walker, Parker Johnson and Caleb Martin. They are charged with burning the A. M. E. Zion church, Mopkins chapel, in Asheville, about four years ago.

How to Give Quinine to Children.
FEBRILINE is the trade-mark name given to an improved Quinine. It is a Tasteless Syrup, pleasant to take and does not disturb the stomach. Children take it and never know it is Quinine. Also especially adapted to adults who cannot take ordinary Quinine. Does not nauseate nor cause nervousness nor ringing in the head. Try it next time you need Quinine for any purpose. Ask for 2-ounce original package. The name FEBRILINE is blown in bottle. 25 cents.

MRS. GARRISON; BORN IN AN ARMY TENT, NOW WIFE OF THE SECRETARY OF WAR

Washington, July 18.—It's funny how things turn out in life, isn't it? Take Mrs. Lindley M. Garrison, for example. She was born in a tent—an army tent—and now she's the wife of the secretary of war. All her life she had been a home woman, not a society devotee, but now she's one of the most popular entertainers and the most gracious and brightest of hostesses in brilliant Washington. A stately, comely matron in middle life, Mrs. Garrison quickly took the capital by storm in official society. She is not a clubwoman or a suffragist, but she does not oppose either. Her interests are all in her home life, in making it comfortable and charming and happy. The Garrisons have no children.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Origin of the System Explained by Its Manager.

(Melville E. Stone in Collier's.)

The business of news gathering in a dominant way was in the hands of three men They were responsible to no one. They could send out to the newspapers anything they chose and no one could call them to account. A large number of newspaper proprietors revolted. They felt that, far beyond their own interests, there was a great public question involved. They set about the development of a plan which should insure an honest, truthful and impartial reporting of events. After deliberation, they concluded that the safest way was to organize a co-operative association of newspaper proprietors, representing diverse interests, and thus put the institution under pledge to report the truth, and to guarantee impartiality, the news service was to be subjected to the scrutiny and the censorship of the varied views of its membership.

Thus the business started. It took four years of hard struggle to wrest the business from private control, and then it succeeded. The co-operative association was accepted by enough publishers to make it a success. The very underlying principle was that it, its method of organization, and its news service should be subject to criticism. With an appreciation of their responsibility, and a full recognition of their duty to the American people, they sought to work out the problem before them in the best possible fashion. If they did not succeed, then the effort of as patriotic and well-minded a set of men as this country has ever known is a failure. At one stage of the contest they pledged themselves for hundreds of thousands of dollars as a guarantee fund to break the chains which at the moment bound the American press to enslavement by the three men to whom I have referred.

I have no thought of saying the Associated Press is perfect. The frailties of human nature attach to it. But of this I am certain: If in its form of organization, or its methods of operation, it is in violation of any law, divine or human, it is the very last institution in this country to seek to avoid its responsibility. If anyone can devise or suggest a better way to do the work it is seeking to do, it will be glad to adopt it, or to permit some one else to put it in operation. The thing it is striving for is a truthful, unbiased report of the world's happenings, under forms that are legal, and not only comformable to statutes but ethical in the highest degree.

WASHINGTON AND AN ACTOR

English Player Describes a Chance Meeting With First President

(From the Boston Transcript.)

It was a chance meeting, at an accident on the road a few miles below Alexandria on the banks of the Potomac that brought Washington and the English actor Bernard together. An old-fashioned chaise, containing a man and his wife, and household luggage, had been overturned. The actor was on horseback approaching from one direction, and another horseman, coming in the opposite direction at a gentle trot, was seen by him to break into a gallop on witnessing the accident. Both men were at work half an hour reviving the injured woman, who had fainted, and getting the horse and chaise out of a ditch and reloading it with its baggage. It was strenuous work, under a noonday sun in the middle of July. "My companion," says the actor, "after an exclamation" at the heat, offered very courteously to dust my coat—a favor the return of which enabled me to take a survey of his person.

"He was a tall, erect, well-made man, evidently advanced in years 1798 but appeared to have retained all the vigor and elasticity resulting from a life of temperance and exercise. His dress was a blue coat, buttoned to the chin, and buckskin breeches. Though the instant he took off his hat, I could not avoid the recognition of a face familiar to me, still I failed to identify him; and to my surprise, I found myself an object of equal speculation in his eyes. A smile at length lighted them up, and he exclaimed: 'Mr. Bernard, I believe,' I bowed. 'I had the pleasure of seeing you perform in Philadelphia last winter.' I bowed again, and he added: 'I have heard of you since from several of my friends at Annapolis.' 'You are acquainted with Mr. Carrol?' I replied that gentleman's society had made amends for much that I had lost in quitting England. He remarked: 'You must be fatigued. If you will ride up to my house, which is not a mile's distance, you can prevent any ill effects from this exertion by a couple of hours' rest.'

"I looked around for his dwelling," continues Bernard, "and he pointed to a building which, the day before, I had spent an hour in contemplating 'Mount Vernon!' I exclaimed; and then drawing back with a stare of wonder—'Have I the honor of addressing Gen. Washington?' With a smile, whose expression of benevolence I have rarely seen equaled, he offered his hand and replied, 'An odd sort of introduction, Mr. Bernard; but I am pleased to find you can play so active a part in private, and without a prompter."

PRINCE AS A FISHERMAN.

England's Next King to Live as Ordinary People.

(London Times.)

An impression of the Prince of Wales' life at Oxford, written by a fellow undergraduate, appears in The Times. The prince's life in the university, he says, has been an experiment of a rather daring kind. It was decided that he was to be in every sense an ordinary undergraduate. No distinctions were to be observed by those he met in manner or in style of speech. There were to be no special privileges. He was to come up as a "fresher" and behave as a "fresher."

Thus, when he eventually arrived we found that he was in no way different from any other undergraduate, except that he looked rather more youthful than most, that he still retained a passionate and almost wistful love of his life as a sailor, and that he had taken the unusual course for an undergraduate of bringing with him an equerry and a tutor, who lurked somewhere in the background.

In Magdalen everything was made easy for him to take an immediate place in college life and interests. And he plunged at once into an almost bewildering catholicity of interests and amusements. He was entertained and gave entertainments in return; and those present found that though he was at first rather shy, he was a delightful addition to a dinner party, most attractive in the quiet and humble part he took in the conversation, but full of humor and with opinions at once decided and sane. His laugh and smile are perhaps particularly attractive.

He was content to play football eagerly and preservingly for the college second eleven; he became a private in the officers' training corps; he played golf, ran with the beagles, drove his motor car with enthusiastic speed. When he was not actually playing there was no more zealous spectator of college competitions, and in Eights week no more untiring follower of the boat from the towpath.

What to Use and Avoid on Faces That Perspire

Skin, to be healthy, must breathe. It also must perspire—must expel, through the pores, its share of the body's waste material. Creams and powders clog the pores, interfering both with elimination and breathing, especially during the heated period. If more women understood this, there would be fewer self-ruined complexions. If they would use ordinary mercolized wax instead of cosmetics, they would have natural, healthy complexions. This remarkable substance actually absorbs a bad skin, also unclogging the pores. Result: The fresher, younger underskin is permitted to breathe and to show itself. An exquisite new complexion gradually peeps out, one free from any appearance of artificiality. Get an ounce of mercolized wax at your druggist's and try it. Apply nightly like cold cream for a week or so, washing it off mornings.

To eriddicate wrinkles, here's a marvelously effective treatment which also acts naturally and harmlessly: Dissolve 1 oz. powdered saxolite in ½ pt. witch hazel and use as a wash lotion.

COMMON SENSE in the HOME
EDITED by MARION HARLAND

FRUIT DESSERTS FOR SUMMER.

SUMMER is preëminently the time for fruit desserts, not only because fruit is then most plentiful and cheapest, but also because ripe fruit in season is wholesome to the majority of stomachs. Nature is a wise teacher and she instructs us to eat the foods with which she provides us so far as we can when they are at their best.

More than this, it is only ordinary common sense to eat such articles then more frequently than we do other items that we can have all the year round. No matter what the calendar tells us, we can get dried fruits and the like, just as we can make hot puddings and pies, either in December or July. But we cannot get the fresh berries or larger fruits in winter, and it is the part of wisdom to reserve these delicacies for the period when most ripe native fruits are no longer with us.

The housekeeper who adjures hot and heavy desserts during torrid weather need have no fear of lack of variety. Fresh fruit may occasionally pall, if she gives it to her family steadily, but she can secure sufficient variety to insure the bill of fare against the accusation of sameness if she will study the combinations in which she can offer fruits of different kinds. She need not rely upon the cold desserts alone. Once in a while a good berry or peach pie or pudding will make a pleasant change. Nevertheless the simpler sweets, such as fruit trifles, custards, jellies, whips, and the like, will be more wholesome and as popular as the more substantial compounds.

Fruit ice creams and ices are always popular, and directions for these have recently been provided. Some simpler desserts are nearly as tempting and the housekeeper who tries some of the recipes suggested below will doubtless evolve new and pleasing combinations of her own:

RASPBERRY FLOATING ISLAND.

Make a custard by heating a quart of milk in a double boiler, stirring into it the yolks of five eggs beaten with a cup of sugar, and cook until the custard thickens enough to mask the back of a spoon; take from the fire and set aside until cold. Whip the whites of the five eggs stiff with three tablespoons of powdered sugar and into this meringue beat the juice from a pint of raspberries which have been crushed, sprinkled with a heaping tablespoon of granulated sugar, and left in this for half an hour. Press out the juice. Turn the chilled custard into a glass dish, heap the meringue on top just before the dish is to be served, and have it cold.

RASPBERRY TRIFLE.

Make a custard according to the above recipe, flavoring to taste with vanilla or lemon, after it is cold. Lay sliced sponge cake in the bottom of a glass dish, pour the custard upon it, and heap raspberries upon this, sprinkling them with powdered sugar. On top of these put half a pint of cream, whipped stiff, but unsweetened.

RASPBERRY FOAM.

Sprinkle a tablespoon of sugar over a pint of red raspberries and leave them in a cool place for an hour. Soak a tablespoon of gelatin for half an hour in enough cold water to cover it, mix into it three tablespoons of sugar, and set in an outer vessel of boiling water until the gelatin dissolves and blends with the sugar. While this is heating press the raspberries and extract all the juice from them, add this to the melted gelatin and sugar, strain, and put aside until it is cool and begins to form, when half a pint of whipped cream may be beaten into it. Serve cold.

RASPBERRY FLOAT.

Cover a quart of red raspberries with half a cup of granulated sugar, let it stand half an hour, mash the berries and strain off the juice. With this mix a pint of heavy cream and put it into a glass dish on the ice. Beat the whites of four eggs stiff with four large tablespoons of powdered sugar, whip the mashed berry pulp into this, and heap upon the top of the cream and fruit juice in the dish.

PEACH SPONGE.

Peel, stone, and cut up enough ripe peaches to make three pints of the fruit, strew half a cup of sugar over it, and leave it in a cool place for an hour. Put one cup of sugar and half a cup of water together over the fire and boil for twenty minutes; soak a heaping tablespoon of gelatin in half a cup of cold water for twenty minutes. Press the peaches and sugar in a vegetable press. Stir the gelatin into the boiling sirup and take from the fire; add the fruit juice and stir until the gelatin is dissolved and all are well mixed. As soon as it is cool, set the bowl containing the mixture in a pan of cracked ice and beat with an egg beater until it begins to stiffen. Add then the stiffly whipped whites of four eggs and beat until the mixture is foamy and spongelike. Turn into a mold wet with cold water and put in the ice for a couple of hours or longer. Serve with cream.

PEACH TAPIOCA.

Soak a cup of pearl tapioca overnight or for several hours in two cups of cold water. In the morning add two more cups of water, put the tapioca and water over the fire in a double boiler, and cook until clear. Meanwhile peel, stone, and slice a dozen good sized peaches, add to them one cup of granulated sugar and stew gently until the peaches are tender; stir the stewed peaches into the tapioca, take from the fire, squeeze in the juice of a lemon, and set fruit and tapioca aside to cool. Serve with cream, either plain or whipped.

PEACH TRIFLE. I.

Put one cup of sugar and one cup of water together over the fire, heat to boiling, and cook for five minutes after this; add to it one quart of peeled and cut up peaches and stew gently until tender; take from the fire and set aside to cool. When almost cold press the mixture through a colander. Dip slices of stale sponge cake in sherry and lay them in a glass dish, spread the stewed peach upon it, and cover thickly with unsweetened whipped cream. Serve all ice cold.

PEACH TRIFLE. II.

Cut up enough peeled peaches to make a full pint, put them over the fire with a tablespoon of sugar and stew until soft. Soak a tablespoon of gelatin in one cup of cold water for an hour, stir this into the scalding peaches until the gelatin is dissolved. Take it from the fire and set in a cool place; when it is cold and just beginning to stiffen a little stir lightly into it two cups of whipped cream. Put into a mold wet with cold water and set on the ice for two hours; turn out on a flat dish.

BLUEBERRY FLUMMERY.

Soak a cup of pearl tapioca for four or five hours in two cups of cold water, put it over the fire in a double boiler with two cups of boiling water added to the soaked tapioca, and cook until clear. Stir in half a cup of granulated sugar and set aside until nearly cold, add a quart of blueberries, and let the dish become ice cold before serving it with cream and sugar.

BAKED BERRY PUDDING.

Beat separately the yolks and whites of three eggs; put one cup of milk with the yolks, three tablespoons of melted butter, and a cup and a half of flour which has been sifted twice with a heaping teaspoon of baking powder and a half teaspoon of salt. Whip in last of all the whites, beaten stiff and turn the batter into a well greased pudding dish. Have ready a quart of berries—raspberries, blueberries, huckleberries, or blackberries—with which have been mixed four tablespoons of sugar, and stir these lightly into the batter, not mixing this up from the bottom, but leaving the berries near the surface, just covering them lightly with a little of the batter. Cover the pudding, bake half an hour in a moderate oven, uncover, and cook for ten minutes more. Serve in the dish in which it was baked with a good hard sauce.

PEACH BATTER PUDDING.

Peel but do not stone twelve fine ripe peaches and put them closely together in a large buttered pudding dish. Sprinkle them thickly with sugar and pour over them a batter made by beating four eggs light, pouring on them four cups of milk, adding one tablespoon of melted butter, a saltspoon of salt, and three scant cups of flour with which have been sifted twice two teaspoons of baking powder. Bake in a steady oven and eat as soon as done with a good hard sauce.

PEACH DUMPLINGS.

Chop a tablespoon of butter and one of lard into a quart of flour with which have been sifted twice two teaspoons of baking powder and half a teaspoon of salt. Moisten with two cups of milk, or enough to make a dough as soft as can be handled. Roll out into a sheet about a quarter of an inch thick and cut into pieces five inches square. Lay a firm, ripe peach, peeled but not stoned, in the middle of each square of dough, fold the corners together, and pinch them so that they will stay in place. Lay the dumplings in a greased baking pan, the joined edges downward, and bake for half an hour. Serve hot with a hard sauce. Apple dumplings may be made in the same way. The dumplings of either kind may be boiled instead of baked, tying each one up in a cloth, allowing room to swell, and boiling for an hour.

BERRY SHORTCAKE.

Chop two tablespoons of shortening into four cups of flour sifted with two teaspoons of baking powder and half a teaspoon of salt; make to a dough with two cups of milk and one egg beaten light and mixed with the milk. Roll into a sheet half an inch thick, spread half of this on the bottom of a baking pan, and strew with a quart of berries of any sort; sprinkle with half a cup of granulated sugar, lay the remainder of the dough over the berries, and bake in a steady oven. Split while hot and eat with butter and sugar. This is also good made with peaches or with apples.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND.

"I WRITE to ask if any of the Cornerites would mind giving their experience and average expenses in attending a world's fair?

I have been saving for over a year to attend the one at San Francisco. I wish to go by boat and remain in the city ten days, taking in the fair for about six days and spending the remainder of the time resting, going on car rides and boat rides to the suburban towns. A friend may go with me, in which case we would share expenses, which we wish kept as low as possible.

"MRS. M. D. J."

I print this in the hope that it may meet the eyes of some one of recent and positive experience. A near friend who was at the world's fair in Chicago proffers a little counsel, born of her own stay there. She says that the cost of accommodations near the fair grounds is usually high and that it pays better to get rooms farther off and make a business of doing the fair, going early in the morning and spending the day on the grounds. There are always good resting places provided. The problem of food is best met by carrying a lunch, not only because of the high prices charged at restaurants and other eating places, but because these are generally much crowded at the time when most persons are hungry, and the time wasted in waiting amounts to a serious drain when one's hours at the fair are limited. It is easier to put up a small and compact parcel of lunch before starting in the morning, after eating a substantial breakfast, and to do as much sightseeing as possible early in the day, while still fresh and unwearied and before the afternoon rush begins. On my own account let me offer the practical advice to dress yourself comfortably, with easy shoes and clothing you are not afraid of injuring by hard wear. Make out your plans beforehand of the things you wish to see and the places you desire to visit, that you may waste no time in deciding after you get there, and arrange your itinerary so that you may go to the places which are near together at one time instead of running from one object to the other, accomplishing little and fatiguing yourself needlessly. Resign yourself to the probability that you will have to give up a good deal and determine just what you must see and what you will be willing to lose. As I have said, there will doubtless be answers to your appeal from those whose experience has been more recent and wider than mine, and I shall look especially for a concrete statement of necessary expenses from some one who knows the subject thoroughly and can supply the practical information in detail which you need.

Carrying Money When Traveling.

"I am planning to go abroad soon. Will you tell me the best way to carry my money? Do I have to get a letter of credit? I shall not have much to take with me when I start, but more will be sent to me from time to time. How is the best way to carry the cash I must actually have on hand? I am a thorough greenhorn, having never before left my native land. KATE L."

Unless you have a sum of money exceeding $300 I believe it is difficult to get a letter of credit. In the old days that was the only way travelers thought of taking foreign money, but the habit of using travelers' checks is growing in popularity with every year. The express companies issue them; so do private banking concerns. The checks are issued in sums of varying amounts, both small and large. One great advantage they possess over a letter of credit is that they can be cashed almost anywhere and will be accepted in payment in lieu of cash at hotels and shops, whereas you must go to a bank to draw money on your letter of credit, and if you happen to run out of cash on Sunday or on a legal holiday you are put to great inconvenience unless you have the travelers' checks. There is a slight commission charged on them by the firms which issue them, but there is also something of this kind to pay on letters of credit. Cash pockets of different kinds come for carrying ready money. One of the best of these is a stout pocket attached to a belt worn about the waist. The pocket buttons shut and has two or three compartments. Another money bag may be worn about the neck and is usually of a wash material with an inside pocket of chamois skin. Both of these have their uses and it is well to be provided with one of each kind and divide the supply of money. If you have the travelers' checks you will not need to carry a large amount of ready cash with you, since you can replenish your supply of this almost anywhere. I hope your trip may be a great success. Make a little study of the coinage of the different countries in advance, that you may not be wholly at the mercy of strangers.

Will Supply Magazines.

"I will be glad to supply occasional magazines to some one who would care for them. How much more good the Corner does by its exchange of kind deeds than could be gained merely by printing recipes! E. S. W."

Your kind offer of magazines will undoubtedly be promptly accepted. Let me thank you for the gifts you have sent to other Cornerites in need. I agree with you that we do a great deal of good in this department, but you must not forget that many of our readers are much helped by recipes which have been proved good by other housekeepers. The frequent requests that come for directions of this kind prove the fact clearly.

Salad and Dressing.

"I send with this a salad which I can recommend as fine. The dressing for it is made by putting together three eggs, half a teaspoon of salt, a dash of red pepper, butter the size of a walnut, half a teaspoon of mustard, and one cup of vinegar; cook until thick. The salad consists of five large potatoes, boiled and cold; two good sized onions, four hard boiled eggs, and a head of lettuce. These are cut up together and the dressing put over them. You can also use peeled and chopped apples with this, if you like them. Four of these will be about enough.

"MRS. C. S. F."

The salad ought to be good, although it is rather heavy, but I don't believe the apples would make an especially pleasing addition to the potatoes. The correspondent herself does not seem particularly enthusiastic about them. What do you other housekeepers think of it?

Her Gifts Appreciated.

"I received a card several weeks ago from Mrs. I. L. and she was glad to get the magazines. I saw in the Corner the letters you printed from two people who wanted her address and failed to send their own with their requests. I am like you and wish to ask why they did not put in their own names and addresses so you could give them the directions they wish. I may be able to send her some more magazines later. F. M."

Thank you for the other helps you have sent to the needy ones, as well as to Mrs. I. L. You are right in appreciating the difficulty made for the department by those correspondents who fail to send their own addresses when seeking to be put in touch with others. Thoughtfulness in this would save disappointment and inconvenience to all concerned.

Invalid for Seven Years.

"Can you get some one to donate an invalid chair? I want one for a small woman, and would like one with the rubber tired wheels. The woman for whom I wish the chair has been a martyr to physical suffering for seven years. She cannot walk and can sit up only part of the time. A chair would be a great rest and comfort to her in the hot weather. She is one of the most patient and lovable creatures that ever lived—a mother who has reared her children in a most perfect way, invalid though she is. Her husband is one of the best of men, but has been at so much expense with the many operations his wife has undergone that I know he could not afford the purchase of a chair for her. I am writing this appeal without the knowledge of either of the pair, in the hope that some of your readers who may have lost a dear one and still has the chair used by the invalid may be pleased to bestow it upon the sufferer of whom I write. I cannot think of a better use to which the chair could be put. MRS. J. L."

Although I am going counter to my rule in asking so soon again for a wheeled chair, I feel I am breaking the custom in a good cause. I recollect very well an incident of which I told you not long ago of a man whose father had for several years depended upon the use of a wheeled chair and how, after the father's death, the son devoted this chair to the use of the afflicted. The chair was lent to those who needed it for as long a time as it was required in memory of the dear one whom it had helped while he lived. I trust there may be some one else who will give or lend a chair to this brave little woman and give her the chance to get away from her "mattress grave," as the poet Heine termed his couch of suffering, into the fresh air and the breath of God's outdoors. I shall be happy to put any one wishing to help in this good cause in touch with the writer of the above letter.

Asks Aid for Needy Clergyman.

"I have been much interested in the offer of a barrel of articles to a minister made in your Corner a while ago and would like to suggest a minister, J. J. T., who preaches gratuitously. He is very poor, as are his parishioners. Some of them live six and eight in one room and have no nourishment much of the time except black coffee and bread made of flour and water. I will gladly pay freight charges for sending the same.

"N. A. P."

I regret that the barrel referred to has already been devoted to other uses, but I print this letter in the hope that there may be some friend inclined to make a thank offering for gospel privileges and home comforts by giving some of the surplus from their own plenty to aid those composing the parish of J. J. T. In that case I will be happy to supply his address.

Could Use Small Scraps.

"If any one would send me scraps of embroidery, lace, seaming, or novelty braids, in lengths of two inches or over, also scraps of nice white goods or linen lawn, I would greatly appreciate it. I am fifteen miles from market and in delicate health. I am handy and original with my needle and can make beautiful designs of pieces that others would throw away, so don't think any piece too small to send. I have two little girls for whose dresses I can make yokes of the pieces, combined with hand work, and help to pass the lonely hot days from now until September, when I hope my health will be better. I would like to suggest to those who have fine light woolen goods, laces, or felt hats they wish to dry clean to try magnesia, which can be bought for cleaning purposes, instead of chalk, meal, or starch. I like magnesia much better. MRS. D. D. B."

Thank you for the suggestion. Will not many of our Cornerites send the scraps of which this correspondent can make such charming and unusual service?

Wants a Mandolin.

"I am a lover of music but have none of my own as I have never had money enough to buy an instrument of my own. I see that a friend who signs herself Mrs. O. H. has a mandolin to give away. If she has not sent it to some one else I would like very much to have it. In return I would send her many recipes if she would write to me. B. R."

Unfortunately the mandolin to which you refer has been given away but I print your letter in the hope that some other Cornerite may have a discarded mandolin she would like to bestow in exchange for the recipes offered.

ZAPATA MAY RUIN PLANS FOR PEACE

only condition is that they shall not carry arms.

Colonel Izunca said the new administration does not recognize the existence of a revolution and considers all Mexican on a general footing as citizens.

New Revolution Starts.

Mexico City, July 19.—Little interest is attached here to the new revolution General Pasqual Orozco and others are reported to be fomenting.

It is said General Orozco plans to mobilize his forces around Aguas Callentes and proceed to Queretaro, but the general belief is that he is attempting to reach a west coast point.

It is understood the Constitutionalists are taking steps to prevent this movement.

Smuggling Ammunition.

El Paso, Texas, July 19.—Twenty thousand cartridges are being smuggled daily over the international boundary at this point, according to military officers here. The ammunition has been destined to both the Federal and Constitutionalist troops.

The army patrol has not been allowed to arrest or detain smugglers although the army has orders to prevent the actual smuggling of war munitions. The War Department regulation, it is said, forbids the use of firearms against the smugglers. The men of the border patrol thus might be able to use only their fists in case of conflict.

CONGRESS STANDS FIRM WITH WILSON

ground that these permits would tend toward monopoly of the natural resources. Much of the opposition, however, has been broken through White House conferences.

The bill aimed against futures transactions on cotton exchanges is now in conference between the two houses, with prospect of an agreement this week and possible enactment into law at this session of Congress.

Representative Moss, of Indiana, chairman of an agricultural sub-committee which recently presented to the full committee a new bill for Federal supervision of State or any other inspection of grain in inter-State commerce, will try to get consideration of the measure in the House, possibly this week, although so far he has no assurance of action. Wednesday the House will consider again the question of extending from ten to twenty years the period which settlers on irrigation projects may repay the government for the costs of construction of irrigation work on the lands they occupy.

Tomorrow the House naval affairs committee will again meet to go over records of officers whom the naval "plucking board" recently retired. The inquiry was precipitated by the activities of friends of Capt. John H. Gibbons, Capt. Templin N. Potts, Captain Veeder and others.

RAW COTTON EXPORTS REACH NEW RECORD

For Value During Fiscal Year of 1914, Surpasses Record of 1911.

Washington, July 19. — Raw cotton exports reached a new record for value during the fiscal year of 1914, during which $610,000,000 worth of that staple was sent abroad. The exports were worth $25,000,000, more than the high record of 1911, preliminary figures announced today by the Department of Commerce showing, while the value was greater, the quantity was less, only 9,165,000 bales having been exported against 10,675,445, the high record made in 1912.

The average export price of raw cotton during the year was 12.8 cents a pound, as against 10.2 cents in 1912, and 14.5 cents in 1911, the former high value year in cotton exports.

About two-thirds of the cotton produced last year was exported. The United Kingdom and Germany took more than two-thirds of the exports, and European countries took 94.3 per cent of the total.

FIVE VESSELS WRECKED ON NOVA SCOTIA COAST

Two Steamers, Two Schooners and a Barkentine Will Be Total Loss

Halifax, July 19.—Two steamers, two large schooners and a barkentine were wrecked on the Nova Scotia coast in a violent storm that began yesterday and continued today. There was no loss of life out it is unlikely that any of the vessels will be saved.

The Cuban steamer Clenfugos, from Gulport with a cargo of lumber for Sorel and Montreal, struck on Scattarie island on the Cape Breton coast. The Norwegian steamer Ragna was wrecked at Balene, near Louisburg, C. B. . The four masted schooner Clarence H. Venner went on the rocks near Cape Cable and the American schooner Harold C. Beecher struck on the rocks off Scattarie.

SHOT HIMSELF AND HIS SWEETHEART TO DEATH

New Orleans Widower Draws Gun and Fires Fatal Shots When Angry.

New Orleans, July 19.—Frank Stagart, a widower, rode today in the same ambulance with Miss Augustine Serpes, to whom he had been paying attention, and less than thirty minutes after their arrival at a hospital both were dead from the effects of pistol wounds inflicted by the former. According to the statement of relatives, the couple quarreled when Stagart called this morning at the home of Miss Serpes and when the young woman started to leave the room Stagart drew a revolver and fired. He then shot himself.

HINDUS REFUSE TO LEAVE VANCOUVER

desperate. They are known to have a number of guns.

Scores Were Injured.

Vancouver, B. C., July 19.—Scores among a party of 175 policemen and constables were injured, many seriously early today in a battle with several hundred infuriated Hindus on board the Japanese steamer Komogata Maru in the harbor here.

Showers of coal and other missiles rained from the ship sides which made it impossible to board the steamer from a tug. The attacking party finally retreated and the attempt to board the steamer temporarily was abandoned. The Hindus braved the steam from a big hose the tug turned on them and mercilessly pelted the officers with lumps of coal. Fire bricks and pieces of iron from what is believed to have been the wreckage of the engine room on the steamer, followed. No shots were fired on either side. The Hindus had no firearms and the police refrained from using theirs.

The battle grew out of an attempt to ride the harbor of the Japanese steamer on which 350 Hindus came to this port three months ago, only to have the Canadian immigration officials refuse them admission to the country. Their claim of a right to land as British subjects was overruled by the courts and the steamer was ordered to sail with them on board.

Hindus Show Fight.

When the officers were in hailing distance of the vessel it was seen that every inch of space along the rail and on the deck and bridge was occupied by Hindus, armed each with a club or other weapon, while at the bow of the steamer a solid mass of humanity was crowded.

The tug's hose was made ready. Back and forth along the rows of Hindus a stream was played. For a time it looked as if the boarders would carry through their programme without serious trouble but the situation changed. Rallying, several Hindus Hindus faced the stream and began dashing a shower of missiles on the attacking party. Reinforcements on the ship followed up the defensive move and soon a tremendous storm of coal lumps was being rained on the party on the tug's deck, which was at the mercy of the defenders as they had no authority to use their firearms.

As the shower of missiles continued thick and fast, many men were felled by blows on the head.

Detective McArthur slipped overboard. Those nearby dragged the detective to the tug's deck again. Some of the officers were knocked unconscious and others badly cut. Hardly a man on the side of the tug nearest the steamer escaped injury. Finally the tug pulled slowly away. Cheers accompanied the retreat.

Physicians attended the injured when the tug got back to her dock.

There was no further movement on either side during the rest of the day. It is said, however, that measures will be taken to deal effectively with the situation.

Orders have been received by the captain of the tug and other small craft to keep steam at full head in readiness for emergency. It is believed all the resources of the Dominion government have been placed at the disposal of the immigration authorities to aid in restoring order.

PEARY-COOK CONTEST BOBS UP ONCE MORE.

Secretary Daniels Asked to Submit Statement.

Washington, July 19.—Secretary Daniels was asked today by a House naval affairs sub-committee to submit a statement on the question of whether Rear Admiral Peary discovered the North Pole and discovered it first.

The sub-committee, headed by Representative Padgett, of Tennessee, has had referred to it a petition by Representative Smith, of New York, requesting an investigation. The petition is a result of continued claims by Dr. Cook that he is the discoverer of the North Pole.

ELEPHANT WANTED REVENGE

Charged a Hunter Who Had Emptied His Rifle at It

(Kansas City Star)

"We had just stopped by a tree that had been pulled down," says Capt. C. H. Stigand, in "Hunting the Elephant in Africa," and we were feeling the leaves that had dropped to see how dry they were. I had half determined to abandon the hunt. At that moment one of the men who had gone forward a little whistled, and immediately everyone got out of the way. The elephants were returning on their tracks. A young bull was leading; behind him I could see the ears of another.

"I did not want to shoot the young bull, so I got behind a tree as he came trotting up, but he pulled up ten yards from my tree and turned on me. The only thing to do was to shoot him, so I reluctantly fired at his head. I went up to him, but he was not dead, and tried to get up again. I put another shot in his brain, and next moment it was I who was being chased.

"I dodged sharply to my right, thinking that the elephant would pass, and I would get a side shot as he went by; but I tripped over a fallen tree and went sprawling. I dropped my rifle and just managed to seize it by the muzzle as the bull was about to tread on it. I then dived head foremost into the branches of the fallen tree.

"I made a frantic effort to crawl through but a stout branch resisted my progress, and at the same moment the bull charged in after me. The impetus he gave me bent aside the stubborn branch and the next moment I found myself on other side, while the elephant was stamping the ground five yards from where I stood, evidently under the impression that I was on the ground under his feet.

"I quickly turned round and discharged my rifle into him. It was the last cartridge in the magazine. The rifle was taken out of my hands, and I found Matola, my gunbearer, who had counted the shots, standing beside me, and offering the second rifle as a waiter might serve a dish. By some oversight the second rifle had not been loaded, and I had given strict orders that none of my men were ever to load or unload my rifles. Being a good soldier, Matola had not disobeyed this order, even under these extreme circumstances, but had, gone as near to loading it as he could. The breech was open, and he was holding the clip in position with his thumb just over the magazine. All I had to do was to press it down, as I took hold of the rifle, and I was ready to fire. The elephant was turning round, and I shot him in the brain."

INVENTION'S WONDERS

Alexander Graham Bell Tells How Genius Labors.

(From the National Georgraphic Magzine.)

Alexander Graham Bell, the inventor, told a class of young students at Washington the other day about putting his head under water and striking two stones together beneath the surface. "It sounded as if a man were hammering for all he was worth at my very ear."

Next he sent a boy a mile away to strike the stones, and "the signals came perfectly clear and distinct."

In these little facts, and the other fact that sound goes over 5,000 feet a second through water to its 1,000 feet through air, lay for somebody the germ of the submarine bell signals used on ships.

Now, in exploring the earth's surface as it lies under deep waters, a great deal of time and labor is expended merely in ascertaining the depth.

"Why," asks Professor Bell, "should we not send down a sound instead and listen for an echo from the bottom?"—thus accomplishing in four seconds a work now taking sometimes more than four hours.

And we should learn by the shorter method something of the nature of things below. "A flat bottom should yield a single sharp return, whereas an undulating bottom should yield a multiple echo, like that heard when you fire a pistol among hills."

Professor Bell then gave an account ,which is here condensed, of an invention founded on a smell:

First, a chemist detected in sulphuricacid waste an odor which on analysis was found to come from a hitherto unknown substance. This was called silenium.

Second, silenium crystallized was found to be a conductor of electricity of phenomenally high resistance.

Third, the new resistant, having been put to use in place of whole coils of wire to balance the Atlantic cable during the period of laying, was found to save at night twice its resisting power of the daytime.

Fourth, Professor Bell, playing upon silenium's sensitiveness to light produced the photophone, by means of which one may talk over a beam of light.

Speaking of the possibility of making the trans-Atlantic trip by aeroplane, Professor Bell did not venture upon prophecy. He did, however, mention the fact that a flying machine flies faster the higher it mounts, the resistance being less in rarified air and the action of the propeller more rapid.

"A 50-mile-an-hour machine flying two miles high will fly much faster than 50 miles an hour. Besides, at that height a 25 to 50 mile breeze blows in the general direction of Europe.

"Calculation shows that, taking all these circumstances into consideration, our best machines should be able to cross the Atlantic in 13 hours."

Washington, July 19.—Chairman Harlan of the InterState Commerce Commission tonight said it was the hope of the commission to announce a decision in the advanced freight rate case this week. He said the case still was under consideration and the opinion had not been completed.

And they asked me how I did it, and
I gave 'em the Scripture text,
"You keep your light so shining a Little in front o' the next!"
They copied all they could follow,
But they couldn't copy my mind,
And I left 'em sweating and stealing
A year and a half behind.
